THE 4-H CLUB FAIR

We heard a visitor to the 4-H Club show Sunday make the prediction that the event will become the foremost show of its kind in the entire Chicago area.

We are of the opinion that it can claim that distinction right now. No "gimmic" is needed to draw crowds to this event. The people attend because they are interested in the program, a large part of which has to do with the farm and the people who live thereon.

That fair does not need any carnival rides, bingo, or gambling games. It can be likened to a small world's fair. The business men exhibit their wares, which are of interest to householders of the farm and the city house dweller.

Here a prospective car owner can compare the features of the leading automobile makes side by side.

The city folks who walked through the exhibit of farm machinery last week end were amazed at the size and extent of the tools that are available to the man who tills the soil.

It seems to us that the successful farmer of today is as big a man as any industrialist or white collar executive, even if they do not have a liquor cabinet in their offices or a downtown club in which to take their one to two hour luncheons.

Did you notice the bright eyes of the boys and girls who were tending to their chickens, rabbits, ducks, swine, sheep and cattle?

They are much interested in what they are doing to help fill the nation's food basket that is so important to everyone of us.

They were not so much interested in the sheckles that their 4-H club activities would bring their way. They were more interested in the perfection of the animals they raise. They are receiving just as much enjoyment out of their labors with their animals as their city cousins whose usual thought is a good time for "me and mine."

Take it from us, these boys and girls are doing and will do more for this country than a great many of those youngsters, whose aim in life is a large salary, a home in the suburbs and a trip to the big city every day.

We all cannot be farmers, but we should recognize the importance of the farmer to our country's welfare.

We never heard a farmer charged with communism. He is too near to nature to be influenced by diversive doctrines that some of the so-called educators claim the United States constitution gives them the right to think, talk and support.

We warrant that there was not a mother who witnessed the demonstrations of the Sewing Susies of Arlington Heights; Pots and Patches, of Palatine; the Girls of Schaumburg; and the other Home Economics clubs, who did not wish that her own daughter could do as well.

As Farm Adviser Mees said over the loud speaker as these girls were introduced, "Boys, do you know that there is not a girl among them who will not make a good wife."

The girls on that stage may have blushed a bit, but in their hearts they knew that such an occupation was their goal in life.

We are not running any "Dorothy Dix" column, but the foundation for living that the boys and girls are getting in their 4-H club work gives them a good credit rating for American living.

You may ask what is back of the North Cook County 4-H annual fair.

It is made possible by a small group of men and women interested in the welfare of the young people of the soil and their homes. They are the board of directors who set the machinery in motion.

It is the cooperation given by local business men who suport the event with their advertising dollars, in either the 4-H Buyer's Guide, or purchase of booth space, probably both.

Then there are the scores of workers who, without pay, set up the booths and give so many hours of their time during the three days.

It is the general public who attend in such numbers that this year's attendance record passed 25,000.

It is the program participants who provide joyfully the entertainment features.

It is the interest of Arlington Jockey Club which so generously provided a million dollar home for the annual event.

Qualifying as an agricultural fair there are certain state premium moneys that come through the state agricultural department.

By careful financial management, the fair earns its own way and through the succeeding years has built up a small reserve fund for use if needed.

Recognizing the great importance of North Cook County 4-H Club fair, this paper is pleased to present this week to its readers an entire page of pictures showing the grand champion animals and the grand champion boys and girls who raised them.

King and Queen as elected at the 4-H Club Fair. They are Raymond Anderson, Elk Grove and Doris Rudolph of Arlington Heights.

Seek Charter For Hospital; To Ask OK Of Medical Group

The movement to locate a hospital in this area, which was touched off two weeks ago, shifted into high gear at a second meeting last Friday evening at the Mount Prospect village hall.

Following up the recently adopted resolution to call together all interested groups and individuals in a united effort, Wheeling Township Jaycees extended invitations to many organization leaders throughout the township area to attend an organization meeting.

The group first listened to a resume of the situation pertaining to the possibilities of government aid and priorities connected with such aid. It was reported that although state aid is no longer available because the governor and the legislature agreed to eliminate such funds from the budget, federal aid grants in sizeable amounts are available.

The federal government has voted funds for such use through 1957. This particular area is in a very favorable position in regard to a priority for such aid.

A survey made by the state of Illinois in 1945 revealed a need for 75-100 beds in this area. However, as several of those in attendance stated, this area has expanded so rapidly that it makes the survey largely outdated.

It was felt by the group that even should the Niles township hospital be realized there would still be a substantial need for a hospital to serve the Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Wheeling, Palatine and Barrington area.

As a result of this meeting, the group endorsed a program of united action to locate a hospital to serve this area.

Ted C. Seiler, Jaycee president, was elected temporary chairman to serve until such time as a hospital association is formally established and permanent officers chosen.

The following committees were authorized for appointment:

1. A committee to draw up a charter for the incorporation of a non-profit hospital association. The work of this committee will be submitted to another general meeting for final approval.
2. A committee to make contact with the American Medical Association and the American Hospital Association to solicit aid and advice in the ogranization and staffing of the projected hospital.
3. A committee to survey all of the physicians in the entire area in order to solicit their reactions, ideas and aid.

The meeting closed with the understanding that another general session will be called as soon as the committees have completed their work.

Chairman Seiler again stated the urgent need for wholehearted cooperative effort on the part of all groups in each community.

Peter Hartmann, Pioneer Shoeman Dies in 92nd Year

Peter Hartmann, Arlington Heights, who opened a shoe store in Arlington Heights in 1887, died suddenly Wednesday morning. He was nearing his 93rd birthday. The funeral will be held Saturday at St. Peter Lutheran church.

The story of his eventful life will appear in the feature page next week.

Increase Activity Fee To $8.50 At High School

Arlington Heights Board of Education at its August meeting, approved the recommendation by LeRoy J. Knoeppel, high school superintendent, that the student activity fee be increased from $8 to $8.50. Knoeppel said it was necessary to have this extra money because of the extreme increase in the cost of textbooks.

Students in Arlington Heights high school have paid $8 for the past several years which includes a subscription to the school paper, rental of textbooks, admission to all school assemblies and athletic activities, an all-school insurance coverage, and a towel fee.

Students may, at their discretion, elect to purchase the high school yearbook at $4. Ninety-five per cent of the students purchase the yearbook at the time they pay the activity fee upon entering school in the fall. The portion of the activity fee credited to textbook rental has been $3.50. It now will be credited with $4, which will be adequate under present prices to assure the student of good quality textbooks at all times.

Textbooks have risen in price to the extent that the rental system is far more practical and economical than the direct purchase or student-owned type of textbook. Students are permitted to buy books, however, if desired.

Students are urged to purchase the yearbook at the time they pay their activity fees since no sales campaign is put on at the end of the school year.

An activity fee of $8.50 is required. It is, however, recommended that students purchase the yearbook and bring $12.50 on the first day of school for payment of their complete activity fees for the school year.

Motorcycle Hit; Youth Destroys State Property

Two minor accidents and one case of destruction of state property occured in Arlington Hts. this week. State police handled an accident Sunday at 11 p. m. in which Raymond Dropp, 18, 445 W. Wood st., Palatine, sustained head injuries. He was released from St. Francis hospital, Evanston, Monday.

The accident occured on Palatine rd., three blocks east of Rohlwing rd. Dropp, who was on a motorcycle, was hit in the rear by the car driven by Emerson Curtis, 59, 49 W. Washington st., Palatine.

Police arrested Dropp because his vehicle had no tail light. Dropp, however, claims that the vehicle had a tail light and the impact must have made it impossible to determine whether the tail light was actually there before the accident.

Three speed signs on E. Euclid, Arlington Heights, were knocked down and broken, several flare pots were broken and two barricades smashed at 1400 E. Euclid at 3 a. m. Monday by an Arlington Heights youth. The youth, whose car was found in the railroad parking lot, will appear August 27 for trial before Judge Neumann. He was charged with destruction of state property and was released on a $100 bond.

A 15 year old Arlington Heights boy had stopped at the stop sign at route 14 and Chestnut, Arlington Heights, August 13. Thinking the car driven by Raymond W. Gosh, 37, Seegers rd., Arlington Heights, was not very close, he backed up causing a collision. The accident resulted in property damage only.

Elton James Johnson, 17, Memphis, Tenn., collided with the car driven by Richard Bulinski, 31, 725 N. Kaspar ave., Arlington Heights, when Bulinski had stopped at the entrance of Miner st. to route 14 August 12. Bulinski had stopped to allow another car, which was traveling east in the third lane, to make a left turn onto Miner st. Johnson did not stop soon enough to avoid the collision.

Name Albert Peters Village Prosecutor

Albert C. Peters, 403 N. Belmont ave., Arlington Heights, was named to the new post of village prosecutor. This post was created and the appointment was made at the village board meeting Tuesday night.

It will be the duty of Mr. Peters to represent the village in prosecuting cases coming before the court and to also act as legal counsel for the police officers on behalf of the village.

Mr. Peters has had wide legal experience as assistant city prosecutor for the City of Chicago, and special investigator for the United States Treasury department. He was also senior attorney for the Interstate Commerce Commission for ten years. He now has his own law practice at 11 S. La Salle st., Chicago.

Mr. Peters is 48 years old, married and has five sons. He has resided in Arlington Heights for 10 years and in Wheeling township for 15 years. He is a graduate of the University of Chicago Law school, a member of Tau Kappa Epsilon fraternity, the Arlington Heights Lions club, the B.P.O. Elks, the Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors, and a director of the Arlington Heights Community Chest.

This new post does not carry a salary, but is paid by court fees. The village board passed an ordinance Tuesday evening fixing the prosecutor's fee at $2 per traffic case. The fee is subject to adjustment by either party concerned.

Judge Neumann lauded the action and said, "Arlington Heights is growing up and needs the protection of a legal prosecutor to protect the interests of Arlington Heights, in the prosecution of cases which are brought before the court. This is also in keeping with the now recommended practice of having judges act only as judges instead of having them prepare cases, prosecute, and then judge the case."

Police Investigate Abandoned Plane, Theft

Arlington Heights police answered several unusual calls last week. Sunday they received a report that an airplane had dropped in a corn field near Central and Wilke rds., in Arlington Heights.

Upon investigation Officer McDougall found that the plane, which belongs to Arlington Airport, had run out of gas enroute home from Wisconsin. No injuries were sustained by the pilot.

The stripping around the back door of the Big Freeze, W. Northwest hwy., was torn off, the lock tripped and a west window open Friday evening. Upon receiving the report, police investigated and sent for the owner, who could find nothing missing but a large tray of chicken.

An attempted theft at Eddies Wine and Liquor store, 8 E. Northwest hwy., was reported Sunday evening. The screen above the front door had been cut and several screw driver marks were visible.

Harry Kelly, 922 Davis st., Evanston, was revived by Arlington Heights inhalator squad August 13. He had been visiting his daughter at 914 N. Dryden when he received the attack.

High School Offers Skilled Training Course

A junior or senior at Arlington Heights township high school interested in securing practical training in a skilled occupation of his choice and receiving credit for it will have the opportunity to do so this 1953-54 school year.

Those interested are asked to contact the high school coordinator immediately, since the program must necessarily be set up by the third week in August.

At present there are, in addition to training situations already filled, opportunities for students interested in drafting, printing, welding, specialized sheet metal and cleaning, spotting, pressing and dyeing.

This is an opportunity for a student to receive training in many occupations which cannot be included in the usual high school curriculum and at the same time earn a beginner's wage.

NEW ARLINGTON HEIGHTS CENSUS STARTS FRIDAY

Boy, 15, Assaults 6 Year Old Girl

A 6-year-old Arlington Heights girl was brutally assaulted and raped early Friday evening by a 15-year-old Arlington Crest youth.

The incident occured around 7:30 p.m. when the 15-year-old and his 10-year-old brother took the girl to the abandoned Piepenbrink farm in northwest Arlington Heights.

The case has been turned over to the juvenile authorities and will be brought up at juvenile court August 28. The youth, who spent one year at Glenwood Home For Boys, is being held at the Juvenile Detention Home.

Local police received the call at 7:30 p.m. and by 8:15 Rookie Patrolman Dieball and Sgt. Johnson had taken the boys into custody. By questioning neighborhood children they traced their identity. The little girl did not know the boy, but described his bicycle.

The same boy admitted Saturday morning to Chief Skoog that he had used another bicycle two weeks ago and had assaulted an 8-year-old Palatine girl outside the village limits. This case was reported directly to the County Police and turned over to Officer Hinks of the juvenile court. At that time they were unable to identify the boy.

The Arlington Heights girl returned home partially clothed. She had been hit on the face and received other body injuries.

Recommend 1-Way Streets At Arlington

If Arlington Heights village board accepts the preliminary parking report as submitted to the Plan Commission by the subcommittee, a system of one way streets in the business district, south of the railroad, will become effective within a short time.

The subcommittee does not expect that the one way traffic plan will solve the parking problem, but it considers it the first step.

The installation of meters as one means to build up a reserve to purchase off street parking is a possibility, which is a step that is being opposed by some business men.

The plan commission expects to have a definite report ready for the village board Sept. 1.

The subcommittee report was received by the Plan Commission Monday night. Other matters before that body was a new plat calling for 66 ft. lots and provision for a park in the 72 acre tract in the northwestern part of the village.

A representative of Kimball Hill was also present, to whom was explained the provisions of the ordinance recently passed by the village.

Government Agent Here To Direct 13 Enumerators

Doorbells will start ringing today, August 20, as the special census, requested by the village of Arlington Heights, gets under way.

Clara S. Henderson, census supervisor for the U. S. Census Bureau, interviewed applicants for the job of enumerator Tuesday, and eligible persons will begin making a special population count today.

The purpose of the special census is to obtain the latest count of residents which will make the village eligible for a greater share of state funds allocated on the basis of population.

The chosen enumerators were given a four hour training course Wednesday, August 19. Information required will be the names of the entire household and their relationship to the head of the house, ages, sex and race.

Those who feel they may be out when the enumerator calls, are asked to write this information on a piece of paper in a sealed envelope and leave it with a neighbor. The supervisor explained that this is necessary since the enumerators are required to keep returning to a house until they find someone at home.

All information is strictly confidential. Only sworn census employees will see the returns.

The village president, Albert Goedke, asked residents to cooperate with the enumerators.

The enumerators will be: Mrs. Irene C. Thomson, 906 N. Mitchell ave.; Mrs. Dorothy S. Carr, Route 2, Box 345; Mrs. Doris G. Walters, 425 N. Douglas; Mrs. Melvin Laseke, 1003 N. Patton ave.; Mrs. Edna T. Peterson, 613 S. Chestnut ave.; Mrs. T. Moore, 634 S. Belmont; Mrs. Jane V. Lambert, 1003 N. Kennicott ave.; Mrs. Mary D. Solon, 614 S. Mitchell; Mrs. Marguerite E. LaCroix, 309 E. Euclid; Mrs. Francis M. Keller, 716 S. Evergreen ave.; Mrs. Mildred W. Morand 723 N. State rd.; Mrs. Jane E. Stumpf, 513 S. Highland ave. and Mrs. Richard A. Hendrickson, 1009 N. Patton ave.

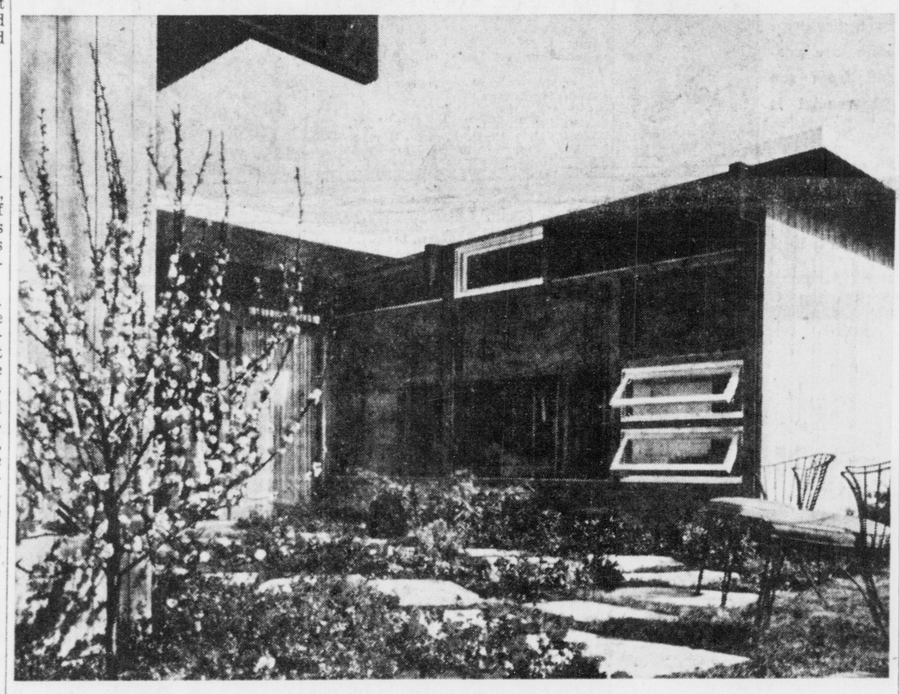

Seek Solution for Garbage Disposal System

Garbage disposal companies will be invited to present bids for yearly contracts before the Arlington Heights village board in the near future.

Many local residents have complained about the companies operating individually in the village. It seems that if one company fails to live up to its contract, the private individual has trouble getting another company to collect his garbage.

Trustee Zimmerman told the board that Mount Prospect has a one year contract with a company for weekly garbage pick ups and a monthly junk pick up. This system of garbage disposal costs approximately 48 cents per month per home.

The matter was referred to the public works committee for consideration.

Arlington Lions Club Adopts Large Budget For Community Purposes

Next year's budget recently adopted by Arlington Heights Lions club calls for more than $3,000 for outright community purposes and an additional $1,450 for the youth center, which amount will be raised from either a direct drive or will be realized through the Community Chest.

The club has considered the successful operation of the Youth Center a major project. Other activities that it has fostered year after year and which call for the expenditure of $1,450 the coming year are: Boy Scouts troop 7, Boy Scouts Explorer's Post; National Boy Scout council; Boys State; Junior Olympics; patrol boys; Thanksgiving party.

An additional amount, calling for $1,255, is budgeted for American Cancer Society; American Red Cross; club secretary and treasurer; District 1F tournament; Dorcas Aid; Hadley School for Blind; Leader Dog League; March of Dimes; Little League; 4-H Camp fund; American Legion "Gift for Yanks"; Chicago Heart Society; donation for hospital; Arlington Heights Red Wings.

This money does not just grow on trees and does not come from dues which is only sufficient to cover the ordinary expenses of the club. The additional money must be raised from various projects.

Arlington Heights Lions have been helping so many worthy causes for so many years that possibly the general public considers its community projects as a matter of course. It is the continued interest in the welfare of Arlington Heights on the part of the Lions members that have made the gifts possible.

Barber Shoppers in Top Ten Per Cent Throughout Nation

The international committee on community service of SPEBSQSA, Inc., has cited chapters throughout the world for outstanding activities based on, among other things, total hours spent by choruses and quartets at community service appearances.

Arlington Heights chapter has been cited as being third in the State of Illinois in such activities and among the top ten per cent internationally.

Rehearsals have been resumed each Monday at 8 p.m. in the field house under the direction of Joe Bryson. The new officers headed by Stan Myers, president, are making plans for another successful year and the Third Annual Night of Harmony, the date of which will be announced in the near future.

All men who like to sing are invited to come to the field house Monday nights.

Report For Induction

Four young men from northwest Cook county reported to the local selective service board in Des Plaines for induction into the service August 14.

They were David R. Babb, Barrington; Arnold H. Kost, Palatine, former resident of Arlington Heights; Robert J. Christensen, and David L. Gallimore, both of Palatine.

Nursery School Violates Ordinance, Board Claims

Arlington Heights village board decided Tuesday night that, since Arlington Heights Nursery school, operated by Mrs. J. A. Miller, refused to sign the agreement presented by the board in July, the school should not be permitted to open this fall.

The school is violating the zoning ordinance which permits only residences in the area. Since the school is a profit-making organization it is considered a business and not a public institution.

One Week More To Pay Taxes

There is just one full week after this one to pay the second installment of the 1952 taxes.

The tax collection period for the second installment is entering the home stretch with Saturday, August 29, the final day to make payments to the township collectors.

Rural property owners are urged to get their payments in to their local collectors by August 29 and avoid the last minute rush at the downtown office.

Time for payment of those second installments is fast running out, so those who haven't already seen their hometown collector are asked to do so within the next few days.

Arlington Heights Home Will be Featured in National Magazine

Paddock Publications learned this week that the September issue of Better Homes and Gardens will feature a modern house designed by the magazine from information given them by a panel of their readers. Forty builders across the country are building the house and will show it to the public during National Home Month.

In the Chicago area Trude Land Development Company of Arlington Heights was selected to build the house. The Arlington Heights model is the one photographed by the magazine in their September article, which devotes to the home seven pages in color and eight pages in black and white. Copies of the magazine will be on sale at Millay's

The house will be open to the general public starting August 28 at 2 p.m.

For the Ladies

Time and step saving features of the house show that the panel had the ladies in mind. The basic plan is the ultimate in decentralized living. One might say they took a two story house and sliced the top half off and set it along side the first floor. The living and sleeping areas are separated by a new terrace dining room. Air conditioning, a modern electric kitchen, large closets, and modern baths will please the lady visitors.

For the Men

The architects have not forgotten the men in the planning of this house. Half of the two car gargae can be converted into a fine workshop. Space is available in the oversize garage for all hobby and workshop equipment. Storage for those hard to store items find plenty of space in the house.

Builder Trude will have guides to show the house which is located at Orchard and Chestnut sts. in Arlington Heights.

Legion To Hold Annual Youth Dinner August 31

The third annual Legion Youth dinner, sponsored by Merle Guild Post 208, American Legion of Arlington Heights, will be held August 31 at 6:30 p. m. at St. Peter Lutheran school activity building.

The dinner will honor players on the 1953 champion Junior Baseball team, co-sponsored by Arlington Heights Ford Agency—George C. Poole, Inc.; Coach Lloyd Meyer, representatives who attended Boys State at Springfield June 21 to 28, and the worthy dads of those above.

Freddy Lindstrom, former New York Giant league batting champ, presently Northwestern university baseball coach, will be the guest speaker.

'Four Bombs Would Destroy Chicago'—Expert

"We don't know whether Russia has the hydrogen bomb but we do know that four atom bombs exploded over Metropolitan Chicago by enemy bombers would cause destruction that would offset their disappointment at not having the hydrogen bomb. Both are weapons of absolute destruction. In the use of either, there would be no Chicago in existence," says General Robert M. Woodward, state director of civil defense.

Most Accidents Happen Off the Job

More than twice as many workers were killed off the job than on in 1952. More than 34,500 workers suffered accidental death off the job, while 15,000 were killed by accidents at work.

Off-the-job accidents also resulted in a greater production loss to the nation's industry. Workers injured off the job in 1952 lost a total of 65,000,000 man-days, compared with 45,000,000 man-days lost by workers on the job. Non-fatal injuries to workers off the job totalled about 2,600,000, while on-job injuries were about 2,000,000.

Men LIKE COLOR too!

for STUDY, WORKSHOP OR GAME ROOMS

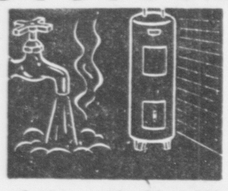

SOME FOLKS THINK that men dislike color. Perhaps that impression prevails because men's suits are usually pretty somber . . . black, blue, gray or brown.

It's true that the average man prefers a conservative appearance during business hours. But when he relaxes at home—in his study, workshop or game room—he appreciates a colorful change.

Color takes him away from his work-day cares . . . transports him mentally into a mood for relaxation and pleasure. It stimulates and invigorates him.

In the Shadow of + + + The Steeple

by William O. McGill

The idea of a ring of Forest Preserves about the metropolitan area is a splendid thing. The Forest Preserve district has made it possible for those who lived amid great multitudes to have a chance for fresh-air recreation in natural surroundings, free from commercialism and exploitation.

One might wonder, however, if perhaps it has not been overdone. A case in point is the increasing snake population in the area along the Des Plaines river. Many persons who enjoy recreation amid the natural forests have a certain reluctance to accept the natural wildlife to be found there — particularly when some of that wildlife is called "swamp rattler."

I HAVE NOT been around here a very long time, so that most of what I know about the area along the Des Plaines is "just what the older boys have told me." They seem to think that it was a lot pleasanter for the picnicker in the old days when it was possible to clean out the underbrush with a few grazing cows. "Now, there is so much stuff growing all over the place that there is really less space available than there used to be." That's what they say, anyway.

Some of them seem to think that if some of the debris were cleared from the ground and from the river that there would be less favorable breeding and dwelling grounds for snakes and mosquitoes. In which case, it might be a great deal more enjoyable for the picnicker than it now is. There is also a suggestion that the debris in the river might be unfortunate for those who live near the river in the event of a flash flood.

The psychological distance from northern Cook county to the county building and the office of the Forest Preserve district is a lot farther than the distance on a mileage meter. It's rather difficult to find out what is going on in the thinking of those who administer the affairs of the district.

When you hear, as we do in our town, that the district is going to take a large slice of real estate off of the tax rolls of the village, one might ask, "What can the village do about it? What can the people who are losing parts of their business places or their homes do about it?" Apparently, all they can do is wait until the condemnation checks and the eviction notices are brought around.

WHERE DO we go from here in the welter of rumors about what may happen? To whom may we register complaints about administration of an important public service? Will the Forest Preserve district take the people who live near the forests into their confidence? Or may local organizations invite a representative of the district commissioners to answer some of their questions frankly,

Many of us who live in Wheeling would like to know what the score is for our friends and neighbors. All of us would like to know what is being done to minimize the threats of snakes, which do come into town on occasion. We would like to hear the Commissioners of the Cook County Forest Preserve district answer some of our questions.

Bus May Solve Transportation for Wilson Pupils

With the steady increase of students attending the Wilson school, transportation to and from the various subdivisions has become a problem. No financial assistance is given by the State unless a child lives in excess of one and one-half miles from the school. Wilson school is so situated that it does not reach beyond the limit.

People in the Pinegate subdivision, whose children must cross Rand rd. at State rd., where there are no lights, have investigated the situation, and find that Mr. Tinsley will supply a regular school bus which will pick up children from the entire district at a fee of $4.00 per month per child, providing there are enough children desiring the service to warrant the bus. Mrs. Ernest Neal, Pinegate, is chairman of this project, and has contacted as many people on this subject as possible. However, there are those who do not have a telephone, also new people who would desire the bus service for their children. Anyone who has not been called, and wishes to make arrangements, please contact Mrs. Neal, CL 3-6251.

School will open September 1 and if the district desires the bus service, a schedule should be set up prior to that time.

Plans Progress For Student Exchange Program At Arlington High School

Students are urged to contact H. L. Slichenmyer, administrative assistant, or Mrs. Hazel Stewart, dean of girls, at Arlington Hts. high schol if they are interested in participating in the exchange student program with Bradenton, Fla., or Oak Ridge, Tenn., during the coming year.

Ae representative of the Manatee high school of Bradenton, Fla., spent some time in Arlington Heights last week going over plans with local school administrators so that final plans may be completed early in the fall.

The student exchange program, being initiated at the local high school this year for the first time, offers an ideal opportunity for students to have a week with the student in another school. The general plan will be as follows: STUDENT A OF Arlington Heights will live with student B in Oak Ridge or Bradenton, Fla. He or she will attend classes at student B's high school for approximately one-half the time. The other half of the time, he or she will visit points of interest in the local community. Several weeks later, student B will be an exchange student at the Arlington Heights high school and be the guest of student A in his or her home. Both students A and B, will visit the historic locations and points of interest in the communities of both.

There are many other phases of interest in the exchange program, but since these necessarily will be more than can be acommodated, students are urged to make their requests early this fall. The host student and family will provide the food and lodging while the visiting student is with him or her and will receive the same when the host school student becomes a visitor at Bradenton or Oak Ridge.

LeRoy J. Knoeppel, superintendent, stated that some of the points of interest to be included in the itinerary of the local program would include the Art Museum, Shed Aquarium, the Planitarium, Field Museum, Museum of Science and Industry, Brookfield Zoo, the Board of Trade Building, Chinatown, Skid Row and one of the major university campuses in the Chicago area.

EDUCATIONAL and social development possibilities are immeasurable, according to Knoeppel. School administrators feel that a great deal of benefit will come to those students and the schools who participate in such a program.

Costs of transportation, side trips, and miscellaneous expenses will be borne by the student and his or her family.

Propose New Restriction For Minors

During a four and a half-hour session Tuesday night the Arlington Heights village board discussed a variety of matters ranging from the ordinance barring minors from taverns to the still existing problem of sewers in various parts of town.

The group passed an amendment to the amended ordinance prohibiting minors from taverns. The amendment bars minors from places with Class C and E permits; in other words it now includes all places selling liquor or beer. In order for a minor to enter such a place, the place where intoxicating beverages are sold must be a separate unit. The amended ordinance as again amended Tuesday will be rewritten and will come up for approval at the next regular board meeting.

TRUSTEE Zimmerman reported on the proposed Consumer Cement plant to be located at Arlington Elevator and Coal Co. Northwest Betterment Association had raised objections to the plant last week. In regard to traffic, Zimmerman said that the state, which has given its approval to the project, will use a merging traffic system with a paved roadway parallel to the highway, thereby eliminating all traffic hazards.

In regard to the matter of cleaning and washing out the vehicles, the company has already purchased a piece of land outside of the village limits for this purpose. The new system will actually create less dirt and dust than the present system, according to Zimmerman. A new quiet conveyor will be used and one stop operation will batch out the sand, gravel and cement to waiting trucks.

The building commissioner, Fred Hammer, issued the permit to the company and the building committee had approved the plant, both on the advice of Hugo Thal, village attorney. The board was advised that since the property was owned by the Chicago and North Western railroad, which had given its consent, and since the state had approved the plan, the board actually had no jurisdiction in the matter.

Mr. Zimmerman also asked Carl Bowen, engineer for Consoer and Townsend, what it would cost to fence the site of the future reservoir and what the cost would be of a storage building for village machinery. Mr. Bowen roughly estimated that the fence would be $4,500 to $4,600 and the steel building $6 per square foot. The board moved that the engineer draw up plans and specifications, so that the town can advertise for bids for these items.

The police rules and regulations, submitted by Trustee Bronwell May 19, were not ready for consideration and were held over until the next meeting. It was pointed out that the board has the obligation of initiating the rules, but that the boards of police and fire commissioners have the obligation of enforcing them.

TRUSTEE Bishop moved that the ordinance establishing the minimum lot size at 8,712 square feet be referred to the Zoning Board of Appeals.

It was brought to the attention of the board that the route to the Arlington Ridge school had no sidewalks and that when school opens this will create a traffic problem. Children must go down Elm st. to the school. The matter was referred to the village engineers who will give an estimate of the cost at the next meeting. Meanwhile the police will be informed of the matter and will make the necessary provisions.

Trustee Carlisle informed the board that several large trees along N. Northwest hwy. had been taken down. He was informed that the trees were diseased, and he in turn recommended that the village refer the matter to the street department for investigation. If necessary, a tree surgeon will be hired to try to save some of the trees.

The board received complaints about the sewers on N. State rd. and N. Pine st. Trustee Zimmerman moved that the board authorize Consoer and Townsend to make an economic study at the cost of approximately $250 for the Pine st. sewer. In this way the village can determine the best way possible to alleviate the existing situation.

A representative from Arlington subdivision told the board that residents on Chicago ave. in that subdivision would like to have sewers. The board told him that he must get up a petition and then the sewers can be financed by special assessment, payable in 10 annual installments.

Since the plans for Jacobsen's Sherwood Subdivision were not available, the board instructed the building commissioner to issue no building permits until something is done about sewers or septic tanks and until complete plans are received and considered by the board.

The board authorized the erection of a dead end sign at S. Walnut st.

POLICE OFFICER Bauer was instructed to make a report on all the signs in the village, excluding those small for sale signs placed on private property. As the ordinance stands, a permit must be issued for a sign on public ground. The officer's survey will enable the board to determine whether it is necessary to amend the ordinance.

The health officer reported that the sanitation problem at Sylvia's Flower Shop, N. State rd., had been alleviated. No polio cases have been reported this year.

LIBRARY CORNER

Thursday — 3-6 p. m.
Monday - Tuesday - 7-9 p. m.
Wednesday - Friday - Saturday
9-12 — 1-6 p. m.

Vacation days in Arlington Heights may mean long lazy days in the shade of a back-yard tree or sun-tanning at the lake, but according to daily records at the library almost everyone indulging in these two summer past times has a book with him to make the most of his leisure hours. During the months of June and July more than 8,000 books were checked out, with over 200 new registrations during that time.

When the annual library report was sent to Springfield in July, the figures indicated that more than 3,000 adults and children are now making daily and weekly use of the local library; 1,700 new registrations were made since the new library building was open to the public last June; 1,600 new books were purchased during that same period and more than 40,000 books and pamphlets were checked out.

A story hour for first, second and third graders was organized this past year, and for the first time a summer reading program for grade school youngsters through sixth grade was enjoyed by more than 100 children. Many have completed more than the ten books required to be eligible to participate in the party to be held August 26 at 2 p.m. This event will terminate the summer reading club for this year. An afternoon of games, stories and refreshments has been planned by Mrs. Craig who has had charge of the story hour this past year.

Beginning September 12 at 10 a.m. children in the first through third grades are invited to attend the story hour each Saturday morning.

CIRCLING THE TOWN

BY PHYLLIS KNIGHT

The annual 4-H fair is over; the unanimous verdict is "best yet.". Exhibits of the 4-H boys and girls were, of course, of the traditional type, but somehow the prize winners look better each year.

Entertainment of professional caliber—including Captain Stubby and the Buccaneers and the Northwest Mounted Black Horse troop—entertained the visitors after they had made the rounds of the exhibits. Local entertainers—the Arlington community band hand, Town and Country chorus—for instance, were on a par with the professionals.

Merchants' booths offered prizes, samples and chances to "try" tractors and cars by sitting on them. The ladies of St. Peter Lutheran church did their usual fine job of providing hearty refreshments, and soft drinks and other light refreshments were also available.

During the few years that the 4-H fair has been held at Arlington park, it has become a traditional focal point of mid-August interest in northwest Cook county.

Now We Know

With the disclosure last week that the Trude Land Development company had purchased the present Lutheran home, a good bit of speculation on the part of local people was brought to an end.

The Trude company plans to construct apartment buildings on the 3½-acre site, helping eliminate a bad local shortage. The apartment situation in the village is very limited, with the few buildings in the business section offering virtually the only apartment buildings as such in Arlington.

There seems to be no question but that new apartments such as the Trude organization would build could easily be rented. Teachers alone—from both the grade and high schools—would be able to rent a good number of the proposed units.

The location of the project is a happy one, too—convenient to schools, and within easy walking distance of stores, churches and recreational facilities.

Welcome, Mr. Grote

The new principal of the Arlington Heights Junior high school, Donald V. Grote, has arrived to take over his new job. Most recently he has been principal in Jennings, Mo., a suburb of St. Louis. He had previously taught in Illinois.

Though Russel Savage, who has left for his new position in LaMesa, Calif., will be greatly missed, both parents, students and fellow teachers are looking forward to meeting Mr. Grote.

Incidentally, in common with many others who hope to live in Arlington Heights, Mr. Grote and his family need a place to live. They hope to rent a house in the community. Information about any home suitable for a family of four would be appreciated.

School Board Approves Proposed Industry As Aid to Valuation

The proposal of Matisa Equipment Corporation to locate in Mount Prospect was discussed by the Mount Prospect board of education at last Thursday's meeting. The alarming drop in the assessed valuation per child over the last few years has caused the board to go on record in favor of additional light industry.

In 1950 the assessed valuation per child was $23,781. The figure this fall is estimated at $17,000. One member of the board pointed out many of the new homes are assessed under $10,000. A home of this valuation pays only $145 taxes to the school. The cost of education per child last year was $250. Industry is needed to help pay the difference.

Another member called attention to the fact the proposed plant is valued at a quarter million dollars, and would employ only 50 workers.

Expect Enrollment Of 300 At Elk Grove School

Elk Grove school, Higgins and Touhy, will open September 8 for nearly 300 pupils, according to Dennis Malcolmson, principal. About 35 of these boys and girls will be tuition pupils from Schaumburg district awaiting completion of their new building some time after the first of the year.

Thorough cleaning of the building has been done during the summer with several classrooms newly decorated. Additional improvements made include the installation of a new flagpole and baseball backstop on the school grounds, a storage cabinet in the teachers' room and a new library.

The library has been made from one of the second floor cloak rooms, and metal lockers will be installed in the adjoining classroom, which now has to be used as an upper grade room instead of as a separate library.

By law a medical examination is required of all entering first graders and fifth graders as well as all new pupils in any other grade. Registration for those not registered previously will be September 2 and 3 from 9 a. m. to 1 p. m.

Loses Suit Against Trailer Camp

An injunction suit which sought to close the Green Owl Trailer Park, 1950 N. River rd., Leyden township, as a "health menace," was denied last Thursday by Judge Robert J. Dunne in Circuit court. Judge Dunne sustained a motion to dismiss the suit which charged the tourist camp with violations of county health and sanitation ordinances.

The suit was brought by Dr. John B. Hall, chief county medical officer, as a test case. Nine other trailer parks were involved in similar suits.

The county medical officials charged that the camps failed to provide facilities on the basis of "lot courts served." The camp owners said the law was written at a time when trailers did not have their own toilet facilities. Joseph E. Green, trailer park attorney, told the court that only 21 of the 301 trailers in the camp did not have installed toilet facilities.

Lightning Stuns Barrington Man

Clarence E. Adams was stunned by a bolt of lightning that hit a tree in the yard at his home, 540 S. Cook st., Barrington, during one of the violent thunderstorms.

Adams, a Western Electric installer, was out on the screened porch at the rear of his home getting in some chair cushions when the lightning struck a huge soft maple tree that stands some 20 feet from the house. The impact knocked the wind out of him.

Candelabra, palms and baskets of white gladioli and carnations decorated St. John Evangelical and Reformed church Saturday, August 8, for a 5 o'clock ceremony in which Miss Delores Mae Trost, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman C. Trost, 202 S. Dunton ave., Arlington Heights, became the bride of Pvt. Harold E. Pflughaupt Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Pflughaupt Sr., Palatine.

Rev. Paul E. Irion of Long Grove officiated at the ceremony during which Mr. Trost gave his daughter in marriage. Soloist was Bob Langguth who sang, "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer." He was accompanied at the organ by Fred Buehler.

For her marriage, the bride wore a gown fashioned with a sweetheart neckline, a chantilly lace bodice over satin and a nylon tulle skirt with peplum edged in chantilly lace. The long sleeves of the gown were also of the chantilly lace and her French illusion veil was fastened to a headpiece of seed pearls and rhinestones. Two white orchids, stephanotis, fuji mums and ivy leaves made up her bridal bouquet.

Miss Carolyn Blaschke of Arlington Heights, served as maid of honor wearing a lace strapless gown of orchid with matching jacket. The skirt was of nylon net over taffeta with an inset of lace. Bridesmaids, Miss Carol Trost, sister of the bride and Miss Mary Lou Pflughaupt, sister of the groom, wore identical gowns of light green fashioned like the maid of honor's gown. All the maids wore small flower crowns and carried bouquets of orchids with streamers matching their gowns.

Eugene Krueger, cousin of the groom, served as best man and ushers were Roy Gordon and Norbert Preuss.

Immediately following the ceremony, 150 guests attended the reception held in the church parlors. Mrs. Trost received in a green marquisette over taffeta dress with white embroidered design. The groom's mother was in rose lace and both mothers wore white accessories and orchid corsages.

After a honeymoon in Wisconsin, the bride is residing with her parents and the groom reported back to Detroit, August 18 where he is serving with D battery, 99th Gun Battalion of U.S. army.

An intriguing recipe for an Indian dinner has been shared with us this week by Mrs. Clayton H. Sauers of 139 S. Linden, Palatine.

This fascinating dinner is as delicious as it is unique, and the ceremony of serving it is part of its charm.

In India one refers to it by the separate dishes, as in this instance an "eight boy curry," each serving boy representing one dish.

When served, a mound of rice is placed on the plate first. This is covered by a glorified chicken a la king mixture. Then there are eight separate dishes containing toppings for the chicken, all of which should be used in order to attain the proper effect.

This is a wonderful dinner to serve buffet-style, with each guest helping himself to the rice (about ½ cup per serving), the chicken mixture and the toppings. A chafing dish will lend itself admirably to the serving of the chicken mixture.

Mrs. Sauers received this interesting recipe from her mother. She suggests accompanying the dinner with hot rolls and sliced tomatoes garnished with green peppers.

This good cook is a member of the Palanois Park Garden club and the Town and Country chorus. The Sauers' moved to Palatine from Boston two years ago. They have a little daughter, Gail Elizabeth, 19 months old.

Indian Dinner
Or Eight Boy Curry

Prepare white, fluffy rice or wild rice. Serve in the shape of a mound.

Prepare chicken a la king by stewing a chicken, etc. Use any basic recipe. Mrs. Sauers suggests thickening the gravy with cornstarch instead of flour.

To the gravy add your cut-up chicken, lots of button mushrooms, pimento and a little curry powder if desired.

Prepare the eight different toppings and serve each in a separate bowl, about the size of cereal bowls. The toppings are:

Sived hard boiled egg yolk.
Finely chopped hard-boiled egg white.
Minced onion.
Chopped black olives.
Crushed potato chips.
Sweet relish.
Browned shredded coconut.
Chopped peanuts.

To brown the shredded coconut, spread coconut thinly on a cookie sheet. Place in oven and stir frequently. It takes but a few minutes to brown, so watch closely.

The rice is placed upon the plate first, and is generously covered with the chicken mixture. This is topped by a serving from each of the eight above dishes. Cut through the layers and proceed to feast with your fork.

In a double ring ceremony that took place at eight o'clock Saturday, August 15, Miss Mary Lou Salge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Salge, rt. 1, Arlington Heights, became the bride of Donald Schuring, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Range of south Elgin.

Rev. F. A. Hertwig officiated at the ceremony which was held in St. Peter Lutheran church, Schaumburg. Baskets of varied color gladioli and red roses formed the background for the wedding.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white lace over satin fashioned with long sleeves, off-the-shoulder and a full skirt ending in a long train. Her veil was fingertip in length and she carried a white orchid with white roses and lily of the valley. She wore a double strand of pearls, a gift of her bridegroom.

Maid of honor to the bride was her cousin, Miss Betty Haase, who wore a pink net over satin gown. Her dress was fashioned with a strapless bodice and matching cape. Yellow roses made up her bouquet.

Bridesmaids were the bride's cousins, Miss Shirley Seeck and Miss Carol Hasse and the groom's sister, Miss Phyllis Schuring. All wore gowns identical to the maid of honor's gown in green, yellow and blue, respectively. The bridesmaids carried bouquets of red roses and all attendants wore picture hats to match their gowns. They also wore heart-shaped necklaces, gifts of the bride.

Younger members of the bridal party were Joanne Reindl, 3½-year-old niece of the groom and Gary Gathman, 3-year-old cousin of the bride. Joanne, as flower girl, wore a gown of pink, similar to the maid of honor's gown and carried a miniature bouquet of yellow roses. Gary served as ring bearer, carrying a white satin pillow bearing the rings.

Roy Schuring served as his brother's best man and ushers were Gerald Salge, brother of the bride, John Sanders and Norman Bretsnyder.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception for 225 guests was held at the Elk Grove hall on Higgins rd. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Salge wore an irridescent silk organdy dress while the groom's mother wore an aqua nylon lace dress. Both mothers wore white accessories and orchid corsages.

Mr. Schuring and his bride are honeymooning at the Wisconsin Dells. The groom will report to Camp Atterbury, Ind., August 25 and the bride will reside with her parents.

Camp Hickory Hill Offers Variety Of Adventure For Local Girl Scouts

Hickory Hill, the established camp of the Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook county, has been the scene of much adventure, gaiety, recreation and learning for many Girl Scouts from Arlington Heights, Palatine, Mt. Prospect and Prospect Heights this summer.

The camp site is a tract of wooded, rolling land overlooking Rice lake near Edgerton, Wis. Two hundred Girl Scouts have attended each of the three two-week sessions at Hickory Hill this season.

Upon arriving at camp the girls are grouped in units of approximately 20 girls according to their previous camping experience and ages. The units are called Merriewood, Highlands, Hill Top, Outpost, Trail's End and Sea Scouts. Each unit is supervised by two or more counselors, especially trained for their work. Girls are placed in their respective units by the camp director, Miss Marian Hodgins, who has supervised the camp activities since its beginning 25 years ago.

All girls in the camp get together for most of their meals in the dining hall, for the flag raising ceremony each morning and for evening campfires. Hikes, swimming, archery, bicycling, and other activities are engaged in within the units.

The Outpost unit, one of the more advanced units, is located quite a distance from the main camp. The girls in this group do their own cooking in the unit's own kitchen. In fact, they really learn to camp by themselves, taking care of all their own needs.

The Sea Scouts have an interesting program. During the first week of camp they learn to handle canoes expertly. To qualify for this unit they must be experienced swimmers, having passed all life-saving requirements. After a final canoe-tipping test, they go on a 5-day trip by canoe down Rock river in Wisconsin. The unit takes provisions for cooking all meals en route and setting up camp each night Every Girl Scout camper anticipates the day when she can engage in this adventure.

During one camp session this summer the camp was visited by a number of Sioux Indians. Two of the counselors at the camp were Sioux Indian girls from the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota. They were Loretta Janis and Lois Brafford with the Outpost unit. The Indian chiefs, who had come from Hollywood to Beloit, Wis., for the showing of the Universal-International film "The Great Sioux Uprising," wanted to see the Indian girls. Wearing their traditional costumes, the warriors dined with the Girl Scouts and performed traditional Indian dances for the entire camp. The chiefs present were Chief Iron Shell, Brave Warrior (chief's son), Leading Charger, Creeping Bear, Kills in Sight and a few others from the Rosebud Reservation in South Dakota.

Mrs. Wynn Howard, chairman of camping, Miss Hodgins, and everyone connected with the council agree that this summer at Hickory Hill was a huge success.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Where do thoughts come from? What is the source of intelligence? How can ideas be applied to daily problems? These and other questions will be answered in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, August 23. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon will be MIND.

The Golden Text is from I Samuel (2:3) "The Lord is a God of knowledge, and by him actions are weighed."

Lesson-Sermon passages from the Bible (King James Version) include:

"My son, if thou wilt receive my words, and hide my commandments with thee; . . . Then shalt thou understand the fear of the Lord and find the knowledge of God. For the Lord giveth wisdom: out of his mouth cometh knowledge and understanding" (Prov. 2: 1,5,6).

Correlative passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, include:

"A limitless Mind cannot proceed from physical limitations. Finiteness cannot present the idea or the vastness of infinity. A mind originating from a finite or material source must be limited and finite . . . If Mind is within and without all things, then all is Mind; and this definition is scientific" (pp. 256, 257).

Good Season Forecast For Dove Hunters

The first game bird in season in Illinois is the Turtle Dove, considered by many as tops of all game birds. Gunners are now oiling up their pieces in anticipation of opening day—noon, September 1.

Although the dove migration through Illinois lasts the entire month of September as does the season—for half days only—the big majority of doves taken comes in the first week. These doves are the juveniles, this year's hatch in the main that migrate first. The large doves, mamas and papas, come later.

ALL PREDICTIONS point to a very good dove season in Illinois as the dove population has increased. This fact is developed by a cooing dove count made each year by cooperators in all the dove states. These men cover twenty mile routes each year to listen for cooing doves and count flying individuals at daylight during the nesting season.

The dove is a tricky target and for that reason appeals to many hunters. Many more shots are fired than doves killed.

THE HUNTER usually doesn't have to go very far to find a location for his evening dove shooting. A shallow ditch or pond is usually the best location, particularly when the month is a dry one. The shooter can slip out after his day's work is done and get in an hour or so of fast shooting on an elusive target.

Properly cooked the turtle dove is one of the most delicious table delicacies any hunter can produce.

Working and praying with true motives, your Father will open the way.

Lessons In . . . . English

Words Often Misused

Do not say, "He was scared of the consequences." Say, "He was fearful of the consequences."

Do not say, "The whole of the congregation sang." It is better to say "The entire congregation."

Do not say, "Half of the apples is in the basket." Use "are" when "half" refers to a plural noun. Say, "Half of the bushel of apples is in the basket."

"Upon" and "on" are synonymous in such expressions as "upon the table," "upon receipt of your letter." "On" is preferable as being the shorter of the two.

Do not say, "I figure that the house will cost twenty thousand dollars." Say, "I estimate."

Do not say, "She only saw him for a minute." It is much better to say, "She saw him only for a minute."

Words Often Mispronounced

Cupola. Pronounce the u as in cute (not as in rude), accent first syllable, not the second.

Manufactory. Pronounce last two syllables to-ry, o as in toe, and not tu-ry.

Reptile. Pronounce last syllables as till.

Rapacious. Pronounce ra-pa-shus, first a as in ask unstressed, second a as in pay, accent second syllable.

Infamous. Accent first syllable, not the second.

Swathe (to envelop). Pronounce the a as in sway, th as in smooth.

Words Often Misspelled

All together (united; one); two words. Benefited and benefiting; only one t in each. Lewd; ew. Feud; eu.

Word Study

"Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day. Words for this lesson:

Ersatz (adjective); substitute; as, "ersatz coffee," "ersatz rubber." Pronounce er-sats, e as in set, a as in ah, accent second syllable.

Ingenue; an ingenous or naive girl or young woman, or an actress representing such a person. (Pronounce an-zha-nu, first a as in an, second a as in ate, u as in use, principal accent on last syllable). "The ingenue was applauded for her performance."

Prestige; moral influence due to past reputation. "He is a man of great popular prestige."

Remote; distant; secluded. "He found his happiness living in remote mountain fastnesses."

Falsification; the act or process of representing falsely. (Pronounce first syllable fall, principal accent on fourth syllable). "The falsification of his books was discovered."

Modular Principal Makes Home Large For Less Money

MODULAR PRINCIPLE — Lad Prospective home owners and home builders who are concerned about the way rising construction costs have forced reduction in room sizes may find that modular construtcion principles offer the answer to the pressing problem of "getting more house for less money."

Under the modular principle, all dimensions of the house and all materials used are divisible by four inches. Thus all fractional dimensions are eliminated. Materials can be suited more exactly to the job they must do. Time wasted in cutting materials to odd shapes and dimensions can be saved.

MODULAR IDEA is not new but it has taken a long time to win favor among architects and builders. Now the times may force wider use of the principle.

You don't have to be a thorough student of housing to know that rising construction costs have tended to reduce room sizes in new houses. To hold a ceiling on his selling price, the builder has to cut somewhere so he reduces room size. He has now reached the point where he can reduce no further, at least he's at the point where further reduction will diminish drastically his sales opportunities.

UNDER THE modular principle, much of the material can be assembled before it reaches the building site, in mill shops and factories where tools are available for doing the job more efficiently. Assembly line methods also can be adapted to use at the building site.

For example, a northern Indiana builder reduced the amount of time required to assemble an exterior wall, by 40 per cent. He used fiber board sheathing which comes in 2' x 8' panels, covered it with insulating siding which also comes in modular sizes, with panels either 44 or 48 inches long. He further reduced labor costs by assembling the walls on the ground before raising them in place. He didn't have to bother with scaffolding and materials could be handled faster, and he did a better job.

New Materials Applicable

Insulating siding, fiber board sheathing, and interior panel board, exterior and interior gypsum board, plasterboard, and other materials made from wood waste products or aggregate concretes obviously have important applications in modular building.

They come in big panels, cut to modular dimensions, are light in weight yet strong. They do several building jobs at once—insulate, add strength to walls. Insulating siding also eliminates painting since it comes with a factory-embossed lasting finish of mineral granules.

Since homes made under the modular plan use materials cut to standard dimensions, house designs can be standardized and the placement of materials determined by exact engineering computation. Thus every structural member will perform a definite function.

Treat Wheat Seed to Offset Acreage Slice

When wheat acreage is cut, there's one way to help make up for the slash in production. Treat your wheat seed. Get rid of disease. You'll get more wheat per acre.

It isn't easy to see how much the stand is thinned by seedling diseases, or how many heads may be blasted by covered smut, points out Capper's Farmer. Losses from these two things in any untreated field may run up to several bushels an acre.

There are fungicides that are 100 percent effective. Your county agent can give you information on any treatment that is recommended for your area.

Still Time to Plant that Garden

Gardeners still have time to plant and grow a lot of vegetables before frost.

The Illinois Garden Guide lists 11 crops that can still be planted in southern Illinois and four that can be planted in northern Illinois.

Northern gardeners have time to raise leaf lettuce, mustard, spinach and spring radish if they get them planted by August 20. The guide lists August 11-20 as the best time for seeding.

School Opening

Feehanville school is scheduled to open September 9, with buses picking up the pupils at the same places as last year. New pupils at Feehanville's school, grades 1 through 5, or Prospect Heights school, grades 6 through 8, should be at the station nearest their home or inform the teacher or driver as to where they live to avoid inconvenience during the bad weather.

Attendance this year is expected to be increased and it is hoped that the crowding of class rooms will soon be alleviated.

Parents of new pupils of the first and second grades should get in touch with Miss Rudd at TAlcot 3-4945. Third, fourth and fifth graders should contact Mrs. Cavett at VAnderbilt 4-4545 and children for sixth, seventh and eighth grades should contact either Mrs. Cavett or Mrs. Remsing at VAnderbilt 4-8853. Students are also urged to take care of their books in advance of school opening.

In Florida

When this issue of the paper is read, your reporter will be enjoying herself at the annual Moose convention, held this year at Miami, Fla. She is looking forward to a visit at Moosehaven in Florida. Magdalene Remsing expects to be back about August 24.

Joe Remsing Sr. was a winner on the "Down You Go" program July 31. His entry was used and he received a world atlas and a gift of money.

Parking's a pushover with Ford Power-Steering

It's a brand new Ford "Worth More" feature—and costs only $134.40 (plus any local tax)—up to $40 less than any other power steering in its field and it's the newest and finest power steering.

With one finger, while the car is standing still, a woman can turn the steering wheel. No longer will rough road ruts "throw you". Should ever a tire blow out, power steering assistance helps you to keep safe straight-line control.

Ford Power Steering does up to 75% of the work for you. Parking becomes a pushover. In fact, all driving is a lot easier. It's safer, too, because this hydraulic power really supplies the "muscle."

And, because Ford's Power Steering has a more natural "feel" than many others, you don't have to change your driving habits radically. The steering gear ratio is the same as without power steering and the hydraulic system gives you just the right assistance when you need it.

DARK WOODWORK WITH LIGHT WALLS!

Preferably not. When woodwork is painted (or stained) a color that contrasts too sharpy with the walls, it tends to give the room a cut-up, disunified feeling. It's better not to put too much emphasis on woodwork, otherwise it's likely to dominate the walls and furnishings — especially if a dark shade is used.

MATCH OR BLEND . . .

. . . the woodwork and walls to achieve an uninterrupted background. This will make a small room appear larger, and give it a unified effect. With wallpapered walls, try to match the woodwork to the background color in the paper. Like every other element in the room, the woodwork should contribute to the overall picture.

Illinois TAX FACTS

By George B. Mahin, Executive Secretary Taxpayers Federation of Illinois

About the only yardstick by which Mr. and Mrs. Backhome Voter can measure the way their one representative and two senators have represented them in faraway Washington is, how did these Congressmen vote?

A tabulation has been made by the National Conference of State Taxpayer Executives of the most significant roll calls to taxpayers at the recent session of Congress. No attempt is made here to "rate" Illinois members of Congress on the basis of these roll calls.

Starting with the senate, an amendment to increase by $600,000 funds for the housing research program of the housing and home finance agency was defeated, 19 to 62. Senators Dirksen and Douglas both voted against the increase.

An amendment by senator Dirksen, to reduce by 5% all amounts appropriated in the first independent offices bill except compensation of the president, was defeated 35 to 43. Dirksen and Douglas voted for the reduction.

An amendment to increase by $5,900,000 funds for the public building service, general services administration, was defeated, 19-56. Douglas voted against the amendment, Dirksen was not recorded.

An amendment by senator Douglas to cut $4,000,000 from funds of the general services administration for repair and maintenance of federally owned buildings outside the capitol was approved, 39-36; Douglas for the amendment, Dirksen not recorded.

On a proposed cut of $1,000,000 in funds for administrative expenses of the public housing administration, approved 38-34, Douglas voted for the cut, Dirksen was not recorded.

An amendment by senator Douglas to cut $33,450,000 from post office funds was defeated, 31-44. Douglas for the cut, Dirksen not recorded.

On a motion involving a reduction of 2 billion dollars in foreign aid authorizations, defeated 34-48, Dirksen voted for the cut, Douglas against. On a subsequent motion involving a reduction of 1 billion dollars in foreign aid authorizations, defeated 34-48, Dirksen voted for the cut, Douglas against. On a $300,000,000 cut proposed in the sum authorized by the senate for foreign aid down to the amount as authorized previously by the House, defeated 38-42, Douglas voted for the reductions, Dirksen was not recorded.

An amendment to increase, by $15,000,000, funds for federal aid in hospital construction under the Hill-Burton Act program was approved 43-41, with Dirksen voting against the increase, Douglas voting for it.

On a proposed increase of $1,300,000 in public health service funds for TB control, approved 39-38, Dirksen voted against the increase, Douglas for it.

A $400,000,000 increase in the amount for the air force for purchase of aircraft was defeated 38-55, with both Dirksen and Douglas voting against the increase.

Both Dirksen and Douglas also voted against an increase of $49,100,000 in the amount for pilot training, defeated 41-48.

Summer Sun, Wind Resulting in Scorched Trees

Trees suffer from sunburn, too!

So if your maples look like well-done toast, chances are that Old Sol has scorched them, according to Davey tree experts.

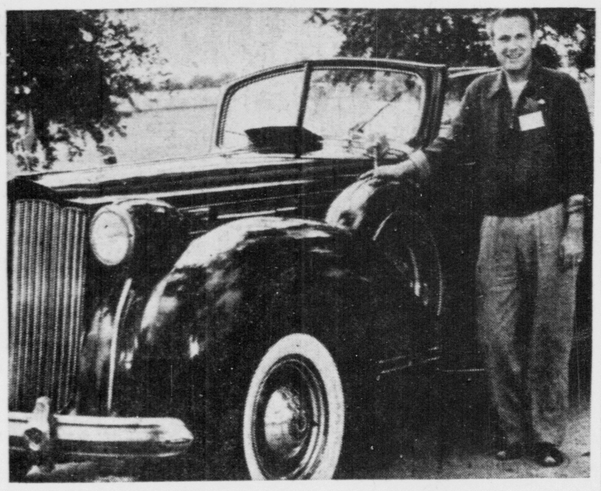

Hot sun and dry Summer winds often suck the moisture from leaves faster than the roots can replenish it. This trouble often is quite noticeable among sugar maples, but also affects other trees.

Trees which are susceptible to leaf scorch can expect an especially bad time this year because the unusually wet spring in most sections of the country produced an exceptionally heavy leaf crop—more than the roots may be able to adequately supply with moisture during hot, dry weather. With the arrival of the searing months of August and September leaves may show varying degrees of browning around the edges and in the areas between the main veins.

In mild cases, the damage will not be of importance and the tree should leaf out with reasonable vigor next spring. Extensive damage to foliage may cause a serious decline in vitality and occasionally death.

Water is the remedy. When the weather is blistering, home owners should put a sprinkler under their trees and let it run for several hours, even overnight. In this fashion, water will penetrate to the deepest roots.

For more permanent benefits, holes should be punched in the soil to help water reach the roots and fertilizer should be applied annually to stimulate deeper and better root development as well as greater vigor and more resistance to tree troubles.

Bert Myers, 8 W. Northwest highway, Mt. Prospect, last week returned his 1938 Packard to its first home when the annual caravan of the Classic car club of America reached the Packard proving grounds near Detroit. The car was tested there when it was new.

Myers and 120 others who are members of the car club drove to Detroit in 50 old cars to present Packard with a gold cup award for classic styling and design as represented by its 1953 models. The club is dedicated to the preservation of automobiles of the years 1925 to 1942.

Members sometimes spend as much as $10,000 to restore the cars to original condition. Half of the old cars in this year's "Classic Car-Avan" were Packards. While at the proving grounds, Myers toured the modern research facilities where safety and riding comfort are tested, and tried out his car on the company's 2½ mile, high-speed track, the world's fastest.

55 Countries Buying Non-Military Planes

Eighteen of the 55 nations that have bought $2.25 billion worth of American-made aircraft during the past five years lie to the north and south of the United States' borders. Mexico, Brazil and Canada have been the industry's top three customers, but the final destinations of the bulk of the equipment spreads all over the world—as far as Formosa, Palestine, Yugoslavia, Denmark, Australia and the Union of South Africa.

Mexico, with the purchase of 693 planes plus parts, has been the biggest buyer of American non-military equipment during this five year period, but the Netherlands has topped the list for heavy transports, aircraft weighing 30,000 pounds and over, and France has been the largest purchaser of new light utility planes.

PINES MOTEL AND ROSELLE BAKERY WIN GOLF MEET

MAC SAYS

BY G. A. McELROY

THE FACT CAME TO LIGHT Sunday while the Paddock Publications twilight league tournament was underway at Inverness golf club that Ernie Simmons of Mt. Prospect, a member of Inverness for many years, is the man who started the twilight league idea in this area.

Thirteen years ago Simmons was instrumental in starting the nine hole after supper league at Mt. Prospect and the idea caught on to the extent that eight such leagues now operate regularly in the area served by the Paddock Publications.

WHEN YOU SHOOT a tee shot onto the green and into the cup, it is a feat known as a hole in one and results in a good deal of notoriety for the lucky or accurate shooting golfer. A week or two ago a friend of ours told us of playing at Old Orchard and watching his golfing partner, Ralph Vick, of Palatine, hole out a tee shot on the eighth hole which is about 160 yards across a pond.

Unfortunately the shot could never be counted as a hole in one for he got a score of five on the hole.

The trouble was that his first two shots from the tee landed in the pond so it was one in the pond, two out, three in, four out, and five into the cup from the tee. Would you call the shot good or bad luck?

MONDAY SEVEN appointed football rules interpreters had a special session in Chicago along with leaders from nearby states for instruction on the 1953 high school rules under the direction of H. V. Porter, secretary of the national federation football rules committee. Between September 1 and 16 meetings will be held all over Illinois with these men leading rules discussions. Mike Farroh of Elgin and Roy Quant of Chicago represent this area.

A few of the major changes involved in the 1953 high school code are as follows:

(1) The tan ball with a white stripe about three inches from each end will be officially recognized for boy day and night games. (2) A "ready-for-play" signal will be used by the referee as a signal to start the 25-second count. (3) The player snapping the ball may have his fingers on the front part of the ball. (4) Striking with forearm or elbow is a disqualifying foul. (5) The holder of a place kick is given the same protection as a kicker. (6) A five-yard penalty (instead of 15) is placed on a replaced player who walks across the field to his bench, provided the act is not a repeated one or he does not interfere with play.

High schools have retained the free substitution rule and any number of players may be replaced whenever the ball is dead. The only restriction upon substitutions is that an entering substitute must participate in at least one down and a replaced player may not re-enter in the same dead ball period during which he was withdrawn.

WHEN ARLINGTON opens its football season against Barrington September 19 the Cardinals will be out to gain revenge for last year's 6-0 loss to the Bronchos . . . Since 1939 the locals have won ten of 14 opening games . . . All ten were in a row, however . ..

Succumbing, 182-19, were Crystal Lake, Leyden, Zion-Benton, Warren, Woodstock, Bensenville (twice) and Barrington (thrice) . . .

Then came two 13-6 losses to Horlick, Wisconsin, a 7-6 defeat by Downers Grove, then that 6-0 loss to Barrington . . . When Illinois opens their grid season against Nebraska September 26, Bob Lenzini of North Chicago, former Waukegan all-state guard, will be at that position . . . In opposition to separate benches and the like for players ineligible to return to the field in this fall's one platoon football schedule, Coach Bob Voigts says there'll be no confusion at Northwestern . . . "A player knows when he cannot return to the game and will so inform the coach. It's as simple as that" . . .

From Rog Hornsby: "It isn't fair to either rookie or club to try out the younger players in the spring before they get in shape. Do it in August and September right in the majors under fire." . . . Illinois has asked for 55 duck hunting days from October 23 to December 16 . . .

When Roselle golf league won the toss for trophy in Sunday's Paddock golf meet it was the fourth different league to gain the award in as many years . . .

One change already certain for next year's tournament is that handicaps will be based on the best five scores of the year for each golfer, rather than on all marks during the season . . . Most leagues use a system on that order . . . Illinois has won 105 outright titles and 18 shares in the history of the Big Ten . . . Michigan is second with 94 and 23 . . .

Eight smiles were evident on winners faces in Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap golf tournament at Inverness country club Sunday when entries from Arlington Heights and Roselle golf leagues won the big event.

Webber Paint And Busse Motors Tie For Third 18 Strokes Back

For the second year in a row the Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap golf tournament for the leading teams in the area twi-light leagues ended in a tie. Roselle Bakery and Pines Motel were deadlocked with a net of 292. Roselle had a gross 355 and the Arlington Heights team a 363. In the flip of a coin Roselle won and will have their team name engraved on the trophy. Members of both teams will receive first place gold medals.

Norman Clucas with a net of 68 and George Wickstrom with 70 paced the Roselle team which plays in the Roselle league at Glendale golf club. John Eiler, who shot an 83 with a handicap 18 for low net of the tournament, led Pines Motel into the first place tie and also won the low net prize of a dozen golf balls donated by Bensenville Sport 'N Work.

A tie also resulted for third between Webber Paint of Rob Roy league and Busse Motors of Mount Prospect Wednesday league as each netted 313. Again on the flip the low gross team was the winner as Webber Paint took the second place medals and the Busse team got the medals for third. Otto Anderson and Art Orwiller with 79 and 81 gross, respectively, led Webber Paint.

RIGHT BEHIND the medal winners were Henry Kruse team with 315 and Stefanik's Dairy with 316.

Low net players leading the list were John Eiler 65, Norman Clucas 68, George Wickstrom 70, Jim Blizek 72, Randolph Bateman 73, and Robert Loehner 74. Low gross players were George Wickstrom 78, Otto Anderson 79, Art Orwiler 81, John Eiler 83, Ralph Steging 85, Bob Louthain 85 and Mike Weber 85.

The tournament was held Sunday at Inverness golf club on Roselle rd., 1½ miles west of Palatine. This beautiful private club was made available for the 32 player tournament and provided a real challenge to players who had been competing on daily fee courses.

JOHN EILER

AS NONE of the players had a chance to practice there in advance it was really a neutral course for all the entries. Bob Paddock, sports writer of Paddock Publications, was in charge of the tournament and presented the huge traveling trophy to the winning Roselle team.

Paddock Publications sports department is indebted to Way Thompson of the McIntosh organization; Stanley Arendt, Inverness pro; and Richard Florey, caddymaster, for their help in staging the tournament with the minimum of inconvenience to the playing members of the Inverness club.

First Call For Football At Arlington Next Week Friday

First call for all Arlington Heights high school gridders is set for Friday, August 28, when physicals will be given all candidates between 9:00 a.m. and 12:00 noon. This includes varsity, frosh-soph and incoming freshmen, as this will be the only time physical exams will be given by the school doctor.

Anyone failing to show at this time will have to make a special office appointment. This would undoubtedly delay them from reporting for the first few days of practice

Illinois high school association requires all high school football candidates to have fifteen days of practice before participating in a scheduled contest. Thus, all boys are asked to report promptly at 9:00 a.m., Friday, August 28, to the sophomore locker room with entrance on the north side of the new addition.

ALL VARSITY candidates are to report again Saturday morning, August 29, between 1:00 a.m. and 11 a.m. for locker assignments and final check on equipment. The first scheduled practice for the varsity will be at 9:00 Monday, August 31, with limbering up drills and calisthenics the order of practice. All boys should bring trunks and other necessary equipment as sweat suits will not be issued at this time.

Redwings Lose To Cole Lenzi

Arlington Redwings suffered another defeat Sunday, this time at LaGrange where Cole Lenzi tallied three runs in the eighth to win, 6-5. Prior to that time Arlington had led all the way.

The local semi-pro nine will play host to Glenview air station this Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Redwings now have a 9-5 slate for the season.

TWO HITS in the first inning by Wille and Lloyd brought in the first Redwing tally. Two more safeties by Earl Simpson and Elmer Kirchhoff accounted for another run in the second.

Cole Lenzi made it 2-1 in the fourth but a triple by Willie and single by Gail Bach of Mt. Prospect stretched it to 3-1, Redwing, in the fifth.

Both nines scored pairs of runs the seventh frame but three runs for the hosts in the eighth put the game on ice. The locals threatened in the ninth when pitcher Bill Stratton walked. waited while Willie fanned, he went to second on Bach's third safety, but was nabbed at third on a fielder's choice. Stange flied out for the final action.

To Initiate Midget Football At Arlington

This year, for the first time, the Arlington Heights park district is expanding its recreation program into the fall months with midget football. The program is to be supervised by "Bus" Ormsbee, AHTHS head football coach, with special instruction given by two of his assistants, Bill Beckman, varsity line coach and Carl Nelson, assistant frosh coach.

All boys age 10 through 8th grade interested in football and living within the park district are urged to join the program.

Those participating will receive instruction in the fundamentals of football, rules of the game, skills, importance of developing the body as well as the mind, and good sportsmanship.

THIS BEING the first year for the program, only limited equipment has been purchased by the park district, so all boys capable of furnishing their own equipment should try to do so. For those without equipment helmets and shoulder pads will be furnished.

Registration dates will be August 24 and 29 in the auditorium of the fieldhouse from 10:30 a.m. to 12:00 noon. All registrants will be supplied with a card to be signed by their parents, relieving the park district or the high school of all liability for injuries which might be incurred. No boy will be allowed to participate without his parent's consent.

Cardinals Still Lead Prospect Hts. Little League

The Cardinals tightened their grip on first place in Prospect Heights Little League competition when they took a close game from the Cubs last week by a 6 to 4 score. Although Les Vaughan, Cub pitcher, gave up only five hits, the Cards got them when they counted, with runners on base. Don Haley, Cardinal hurler, also allowed five hits and Dave Selman, Cub catcher, got two of them, a single and a line drive home run.

The Red Sox, weakened because a number of their players were away on vacation, took a pasting from the White Sox by a 19-0 score. Willard McDowell and Fred Hedemark tried hard, but were unable to stem the avalanche of White Sox hits, and in the meantime Dale Hedberg, White Sox pitcher, was hanging up a one hit pitching performance. Tip Yager was the big man with the bat for the White Sox with three singles and a double.

The Phillies, also a victim of vacationitis, dropped a one-sided game to the Braves by a score of 18-1.

Others competing but not qualifying were Emil Esposito of White Pines and Bob Schlegel of Roselle club.

DeGreeff to Missouri

Ray DeGreeff, basketball and baseball coach at Arlington Heights high school last year, has accepted a like position at St. Francis Catholic high school at Washington, Missouri. He and his family expect to leave for Missouri about the 24th of August. Washington is about 50 miles west of St. Louis.

Set Probable Date for Inter-League Bowling Tourney in January

Bowling league secretaries are urged to consider setting aside $15 of league funds for the coming Paddock Publications Inter-League Handicap bowling tournaments. These funds will cover the entries of the first place teams as of December 25 for the men and January 1 for the women.

Exact location of next January's tournament is not known at this time, but will possibly be Trausch-Linden Recreation in Bensenville Sunday, January 10, for the men and Mount Prospect Bowling Lanes Sunday, January 17, for the ladies.

The $15 entry fees will be split 50-50 for prizes and expenses. Leagues eligible will include those competing at any of the six alley establishments within the immediate area covered by Paddock Publications.

House League Bowlers To Meet This Friday

Palatine House league will hold its organizational meeting Friday night, August 21, at Hi-Way Recreation in Palatine. Meeting will start at 8 p.m.

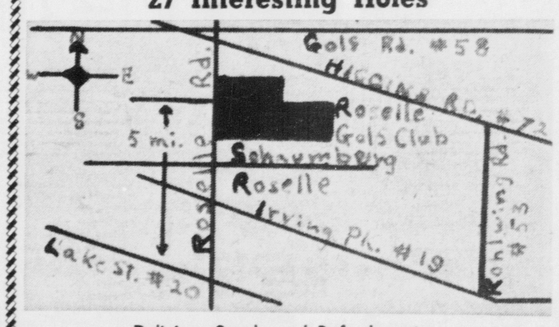

Newest addition to the football field at Arlington Heights high school is the double deck press and photo tower on the west side. Movies of all games by both teams will be shot from the top of the tower, while members of the press will occupy the lower balcony alongside the local assistant football mentor calling suggestions down to the bench.

The stand and cameraman's level is a gift of the student council, with the freshman class paying for the addition of the press section. The latter may be covered against inclement weather in the future. Ed Paulus, head of the shop department at the high school, engineered the project.

Arlington Wins All-Star Tilt, Loses County Final

Arlington Heights Junior Legion baseball team called it quits Monday night when they lost to Oak Park in the second half county championships, 12-4. The Poole Fords won three other games during the week, but this was the crucial title contest.

After winning the second half district title, Coach Lloyd Meyer's boys beat Evanston Wednesday, 12-2, defeated Hirsch of Chicago Saturday, 6-4, edged the All-Stars Sunday, 9-8.

Monday night's game was the seventh in ten days for the locals, and the end of the trail after also winning the first half district championship. The luster was gone with four errors helping Oak Park win that final game.

OAK PARK took a 2-0 lead the opening inning, saw it vanish in the second when Arlington tallied twice on a walk to Hesch, hits by Dotts and Verret, sacrifice by Ryden and a squeeze play.

Oak Park came back with two in the third, three in the fourth, two in the fifth inning, a loner in the sixth and two in the seventh to cinch the game.

A hit by Harrington, walk to Rog Thomas and a double by Jack Sieburg scored the other two runs for Heights in the eighth.

THE ALL-STAR game Sunday saw Arlington pull it out of the fire with four runs in the ninth inning. Ryden twirled four innings for the locals, Dotts one, and Langlie of Park Ridge four frames.

The All-Stars tallied four runs in the second inning and four more in the fifth. Arlington tallied twice in the third on walks to Lemke and Randy Thomas, hit by Ted Bakalar, walk to Hesch and a hit by Dotts.

Jack Sieburg doubled to start the fifth for Heights, went to third when Wayne Hesch walked, and came home on a wild pitch. Dotts was safe on a wild pitch, stole second, went to third on Verret's single, and scored on an error.

THE BIG ninth started with a walk to Dave Ryden, who scored after successive hits by Lemke and Harrington. Roger Thomas was passed. Bakalar was on base on an error but Lemke was caught at the plate.

After Sieburg flied out Hesch drove in the tying run and Dotts hit safely, bringing in Bakalar with the winning run.

Kruse Back In 1st In Tuesday Golf At Mt. Prospect

Heine Kruse says he likes his team to be first or last because it's good publicity. Well, they're first again but Mr. Kruse better make the best of it because any one of six different teams have a chance to overtake them.

Two nights of play remain and the teams in the Tuesday division of the Mount Prospect twilight league are just as close as ever.

Kruse took over first place by virtue of a six point win over the Mount Prospect Lions club team. The Mount Prospect Jewelers, occupants of first place last week, were beaten soundly by Van's Gift Shop and dropped back to fifth place.

IN SECOND place after winning six points from the K. R. Whitton Realtors are the players from the Mount Prospect Electric Co. The Geo. O'Day Realtors were dropped back from second to third place by the Commissioner Busse team which beat them 7 to 3. This win moved the Busse team up from 5th to 4th place.

We just discovered a strange thing. None of the players on the first four teams shot a single birdie last week. Floyd Eldridge birdied the 9th, Chuck Wrobel the 5th, Bob Whiteley the 13th and Father Chaffee birdied the 18th. Do you think we should tell these fellows not to make any birdies next week so their teams can do better

Hartman Twirls No-Hitter In Arlington Little League

Like their Milwaukee counterparts, the Arlington Heights Little League Braves were active boys this past week as they won two and lost one game. Outstanding victory was the no-hitter twirled by Dennis Hartman against the Red Sox, 11-0.

The Braves weren't bashful at the plate as they tallied one, two, four and three runs in that order to start the game Saturday afternoon. They added one more in the sixth inning for good measure.

Outstanding at the plate was Al Sanders with three hits in four times at the plate, scoring three runs. Hartman fanned five, walked three and hit one batsman.

Phil Gustafson, on the mound for the Red Sox, struck out 12 Braves but permited ten hits for 11 runs.

THE BRAVES continued their winning ways Monday night when they socked the Dodgers, 12-3. Six runs the opening frame, five the second put the game on ice.

Dennis Antman fanned four and walked three in the two innings he was on the mound for the winners. Dave Lussow was losing pitcher for the Dodgers, fanning nine, walking eight, and permitting 11 hits.

Tops at the plate for the Braves was Dave Brodnan with three hits in four times at bat, George Tuttle was walked four times for the Dodgers.

Al Sanders went 3 for 3 for the losers, with Schumacher's 2 for 4 tops for the Yankees.

Lions Olympics Climax Play Program At Arlington Heights

The third annual Arlington Heights swimming championships and Olympics sponsored by the Lions club provided a successful climax to the park district recreation program. Over 300 youngsters participated in the races, with a like number taking part in the swimming championships.

Swimming finals were held Wednesday with 132 qualifiers participating and gaining medals. That swimming marks are improving was demonstrated when 13 of 22 pool records were broken. All five girls in 11 and 12 year old backstroke broke the existing figure.

Youngest swimmer in the group was 5-year-old Johnny Nelson, 409 N. Douglas, Arlington Heights. He placed fourth in the backstroke for boys aged 8 and under.

THE PARADE Wednesday afternoon included 75 floats and decorated bikes. Medals and trophies were given during the afternoon and evening.

"We of the park district recreation program," stated Russ Attis, overall director of the play schedule during the summer, "wish to publicly thank the Lions for their financial help and willingness to sponsor the Olympics to give recognition to the youngsters of the town."

Horse Show Sunday At Farm Near Barrington

Mrs. Arthur Godfrey, wife of the radio and television star, will ride "Hunzukut," one of Godfrey's stable of ten Arabian horses, in competition at the tenth annual Barrington horse show on Sunday, August 23.

The show, which will be held at Round Barn, on Hawley rd., southwest of Barrington off route 59, starts Saturday.

Two other Godfrey horses will be in the Barrington show, including the star's personal favorite, "San-San," which will be ridden by Miss Nancy Graham, a family friend in Virginia.

Also Rans Toss Caution To the Winds to Cop Soldier Field Races

While Kenny Netzel and Tom Pistone continue to dominate the long list of entries, the "near-winners" of feature auto races at Soldier Field this summer are throwing caution to the winds as the fading season on the lake front makes them overly anxious to catch the "two old pros" and as a result, each race sees a maximum of spills, spins and entanglements which turns the asphalt oval into an obstacle course.

Netzel leads Pistone by slightly more than 100 points in the Soldier Field standings but the latter could overtake his rival by winning both of the feature races on any program. These two have a comfortable lead over the other drivers listed among the first ten, which oddly enough contains five "lead-foots" who have yet to win a feature race but who have displaced five drivers who have captured a main event.

Barclay Holds Slim Lead In Wednesday Golf

The first place jitters seized Barclay - Clearbrook Engineering last Wednesday night just as it had their predecessors and it cost them a 3½ to 6½ setback at the hands fo Illinois Range in Mount Prospect golf league. However, the defeat was not enough to knock them out of the top spot which they still hold by a slim 2¼ point margin.

Meanwhile, apparently still unable to shake the above named malady, Busse Motors, former holder of the top position was blasted out of second place and into fourth by the up-coming Sundberg's team, 8 to 2.

BUSSE-BIERMANN Hardware coming up quietly on the outside eased into second place with a 6½ to 3½ victory over Kirchhoff Insurance. Sundberg's, by virtue of their victory over Busse Motors moved into third place.

Par took another beating as eight birdies were scored: Don Sporleder, No. 1; The Beast, No. 7; G. Hawk, No. 9; T. Gerstenslager, 13; Dick Kimbrough, 11 and 12; Ed. Lange 13 and 14.

'Lady in the Dark' to Open at Music Theater Next Week Thursday

Music Theater will present one of the greatest Broadway smash hits played for the first time in "theater-in-the-round" when "Lady In The Dark" opens Thursday, August 27.

The original company of "Lady In The Dark" starred the inimitable Gertrude Lawrence, who will long be remembered for her portrayal of Liza Elliott, the successful New York career woman who spurns romance to be the editor of a fashion magazine. By the revelation of her inner thoughts through fabulous dream sequences (as can only be done on the Music Theater stage) to her favorite psychiatrist, Dr. Brooks, Liza finally learns about her real "suppressed" self and eventually falls in love.

Liza Elliott will be happily played by Rose Inghram, the star of this week's show, "Kiss Me Kate." Others in the play are David Atkinson as Russell Paxton—the role that made Danny Kaye famous—Angus Cairns as Kendall Nesbitt, Robert Busch as Charley Johnson, and Clifford Fearl as Dr. Brooks.

Now playing is "Kiss Me Kate."

Dorothy Maynor Last College Camp Concert

Dorothy Maynor, who appears in the summer music festival series of "Music By The Lake" Sunday evening, August 30, at 7:15 p.m., CST, at College Camp auditorium on Geneva Lake, Wisconsin, is one of that small company of artists who "have greatness thrust upon them." The young singer thought it was merely coincidence that brought her to the Berkshire Music festival in 1939. But the "coincidence" had been carefully engineered by friends who were convinced that the time had arrived to introduce the gifted girl to the music world.

They had persuaded Serge Koussevitzky, conductor of the Boston Symphony orchestra to give her an audition. Hot, tired and prepared to be bored after a hard day's rehearsal, the great conductor leaned back resignedly to hear "another promising voice." But the beauty and authority with which the girl delivered a group of songs brought the scholarly musician to his feet with the cry, "The world must hear this voice!" Within a week, Dorothy Maynor was preparing for her Town Hall debut.

In spite of the acclaim which followed her Town Hall debut and her subsequent engagements with the New York Philharmonic, Chicago, Philadelphia and Cleveland orchestras, Miss Maynor took her art but not herself seriously. While most young artists' careers begin slowly, during the five years between 1939 and 1945, Miss Maynor made six transcontinental tours, with an aggregate of 350 concerts. She acquired a repertoire of more than 300 songs. It was not until the summer of 1950 that Miss Maynor made her European debut, appearing in concerts in Rome, Copenhagen, Stockholm, Oslo, Paris and Amsterdam.

Some memberships for next year's series are still available, with free admission to the Maynor concert August 30 going to the first ten memberships received from this area. An ad elsewhere in this paper gives details, address, etc.

'Madwoman of Chaillot' At Showcase Theatre

Now in its final week, playing through Sunday, August 23, is the French comedy by Jean Giraudoux, "The Madwoman of Chaillot," at Evanston's air conditioned Showcase Theatre.

"The Madwoman of Chaillot," directed by David Lewis, stars New York actress, Cavada Humphrey in the title role; David Lewis as the "Ragpicker," Hope Summers as Mme. Constance, Barbara Foley as Mlle. Gabrielle and Viola Berwick as Mme. Josephine.

'Without Love' Next At Chevy Chase

"—But Not Goodbye," the funny fantasy that made its Chicago debut this week at the picturesque Chevy Chase summer theatre on Milwaukee ave., one mile north of Wheeling, provides a pleasant vehicle to display the delightful talents of pretty star Barbara Moro. With each new presentation, La belle Moro shows a thorough understanding of the character she portrays.

Following the present hit will be the sophisticated play, "Without Love" Tuesday, August 25.

Try Growing Dwarf Apples, Pears At Home

Dwarf apple and pear trees are worth a trial in home plantings, a fruit specialist at the University of Illinois believes, if all conditions are right.

J. C. McDaniel lists these conditions as soil with good drainage and fertility and the proper combination of understocks and varieties.

Tests have not shown that dwarf stone fruits are as promising as apples and pears, McDaniel says.

AN APPLE understock named Malling IX makes the smallest, earliest fruiting trees, but they are suitable only for home plantings.

Malling VIII, Malling VI and Malling II are other understocks being propagated by some nurseries in this country that have shown some promise in commercial plantings. Recent studies indicate that the Clark Dwarf is probably the same as Malling VIII.

SOME PEAR varieties on quince understock make good trees. The most satisfactory pear variety at Urbana is Maxine. Some Maxine trees will be available on dwarf stocks from nurseries this fall. Fire blight disease makes Bartlett and many other nigh quality pear varieties unsatisfactory for Illinois plantings.

Remember to order dwarf varieties of fruit trees only from reliable nurseries, the specialist suggests.

Libertyville to Fete Returning Korean PW

Plans for a huge welcome for Martin Christensen Jr., Lake County's only known prisoner of war, were being formulated this week.

Libertyville American Legion Post 329 gave unanimous approval of a "Martin Christensen Day" project.

Every organization in the county will be contacted in an effort to arrange a colorful homecoming for the 25-year-old soldier who spent nearly two years in a Communist prison camp.

Date of the observance depends on young Christensen's arrival in the U. S., although a tentative date of Saturday, September 19, has been set.

Beware False Advertising For Some Fertilizers

Illinois gardeners are warned to be on guard against false claims for some liquid garden fertilizers.

Norman Oebker, University of Illinois garden specialist, says that commercial fertilizers are very good in improving yield and quality of both vegetables and flowers, but many statements being made about some liquid fertilizers just aren't true.

ONE CLAIM is that the fertilizers contain radioactive materials. Even if it were true, Oebker says, these materials would do little or nothing to improve the garden.

Another claim is that liquid fertilizers are better than dry fertilizers. In a few cases, Oebker says, plant food in liquids may become available sooner, but under most circumstances it makes little difference.

* * *

A THIRD false claim is that liquid fertilizers are cheaper than others. On the contrary, Oebker says, liquid fertilizers are more expensive than any other for gardens.

The last claim he refutes is that liquid fertilizers get instantaneous results. All fertilizers are good, he says, but none work instantaneously.

Manure Most Valuable Farm By-Product

Illinois livestock each year produce more than 60 millions tons of manure worth about 150 million dollars for its plant food value alone.

That's 50 per cent more than the oat crop is worth in the state

Farm economist W. N. Thompson of the University of Illinois says that these figures actually understate the potential value of manure. If it were properly handled, at present farm prices it would be worth more than 300 million dollars, or about $1,500 a farm in added crop production.

The average ton of manure contains 10 pounds of nitrogen, 5 pounds of phosphoric acid and 10 pounds of potash—all worth at today's about $2.50. One cow will produce about 12 tons of manure a year.

Thompson lists four ways to save more manure: (1) use plenty of bedding; (2) pave your feedlots; (3) haul the manure to the fields often, daily if you can; and (4) use the rotation method of feeding livestock on pasture.

Drop In Supply Of Other Meats Aids Demand For Beef

A steady demand for beef due to improved industrial conditions and a reduced supply of competitive meats has helped move the oversupply of beef during the past season, reports H. M. Conway, director of research for the National Live Stock Producer. With most of the feed crop marketed, some recovery in fat cattle prices is expected during the next several months, continued Conway.

There is still considerable fear of the cattle production cycle and there will be some hesitancy by many cattle feeders about refilling feedlots, especially with the supported price of corn boosting feeding costs.

HOWEVER, MUCH of this increase in beef production is offset by a marked downtrend in hog production. There is also a decrease in sheep production, giving cattle added protection from a consumptive demand as well as a feed supply standpoint. These two factors will tend to stabilize the overall supply of meat.

USDA reports indicate the 1953 spring pig crop was reduced approximately 10% and breeding intentions indicate a 5% decrease in the coming fall crop. Such a level of hog production puts the pork supply back in line with the previous cyclical low. This means an extreme shortage of pork. Hog production is far out of line with the supply of corn and with the per capita demand for pork.

Record Cow

With 15,411 pounds of milk and 585 pounds of butterfat to her credit, Joan Iris Alexiana, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Mission Sisters Servants of the Holy Ghost, Techny, has completed a 340-day production test in official herd improvement registry.

She was milked two times daily, and was 8 years 4 months of age when she began her testing period.

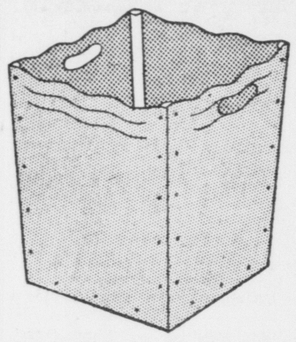

Her record averages approximately 21 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

Handy Jim's FIXIN-UP TIPS For Farm and Home

Masonite Wastebasket Simple to Make

EVERY room should have a wastebasket, and some rooms should have two! Making one or several from the plan here described and illustrated is an easy test of an amateur craftsman's skill.

From a lumber yard obtain some three-quarter-inch quarter-round and a panel of Masonite Tempered Presdwood one-eighth inch thick. With a cross-cut saw, cut from the panel four identical pieces for the sides and a smaller one for the bottom. The side pieces are 12 inches long and tapered from a top width of 10 inches to a bottom width of 8 inches. An 8-inch square serves as the bottom.

The panels are nailed to the quarter-rounds serving as corner posts. At the bottom of each side piece attach a length of quarter-round to form a square framework into which the bottom may be nailed.

Hand holds may be cut out, as illustrated, with a coping or similar saw. To start the blade, drill a hole.

As a variation from this style, use the same sized sides and bottom, lacing instead of nailing the sides together. No quarter-rounds then are needed, except as a base for the bottom. Drill holes about an inch apart and a half-inch from the edge. Use leather thongs for lacing.

Deep Plowing Helps Many Farms

If your farm is too sandy, turn it upside down!

Deep-plowing increases sandy land productivity by bringing heavier soils to the surface. You stand a better chance for a winter cover crop where you have deep-plowed. You keep the soil you have, and add fertility and organic matter to it.

Plowing deep, down 20 to 24 inches, seems to be the key to unlock top production on sandy soil. What does this do? The experts figure your soil is fairly safe from blowing if you can get 8 to 10 per cent clay in the topsoil.

"AT OKLAHOMA'S sandy land experiment station, for example, tests showed only one area out of 27 with 10 per cent clay in the topsoil before plowing," relates a Capper's Farmer field editor. "After deep-plowing, nine more of these test plots had above 10 per cent clay; another nine had been changed to loamy sand and the other eight were greatly improved but not up to the 10 per cent mark."

The sandy land station got half a bale of cotton an acre on deep-plowed land after 1952's scorching summer. "There was nothing, not even a good crop of stems, on strips not deep-plowed," the editor adds.

Deep-plowing works on irrigated lands as well as dry farms. And it isn't restricted to the cotton belt.

IN TEXAS, fields plowed 7 years ago still haven't blown. Sometimes the main purpose is to stop blowing in grain sorghum and wheat lands.

Wheat farmers in the southwest corner of Kansas took to the idea after they saw results of deep-plowing. In the midst of some rough dust storms, fields deep-plowed last winter "stood out like a sore thumb." These fields weren't blowing, but they were catching a lot of sand blown off listed fields.

Yields are boosted, as many will testify. The boys with the lead pencils figure that 3,000 acres of 1952 deep-plowing in Harmon county, Oklahoma, last year produced an extra $100,000. In fact, this land was about the only place there was any cotton, except on irrigated farms.

More Credit Needed

Credit is an important factor in achieving much-needed increases in farm production. Operation of a farm today calls for much greater capitalization than was true 50 years ago, or even 10 years ago.

Urge Farmers To Get Soil Samples In For Testing

Farm adviser Carl F. Mees has sounded the call for soil samples to be tested in the county soil testing laboratory.

Right now the laboratory can take care of samples efficiently, and the soil is in good condition, Mees points out. But in late fall and spring the laboratory is usually swamped with samples, and soil condition makes testing more difficult.

* *

BY HAVING soil tested now, farmers can learn what plant foods their land needs in order to produce high yields next year. Limestone and rock phospate, for example, should be applied at least six months before clovers are seeded.

Another point—muriate of potash is a good buy these days. Prices are below prewar. And there's a plentiful supply.

THIS MATERIAL can be spread on stubble clover or clover sod to be plowed under, or on pastures or hayfields. Where land is not too rolling, it can be applied on soybean stubble where small grain and clover or alfalfa are to follow next year.

But a soil test is the only sure way to tell whether or not your land needs potash. The test will tell you not only which plant foods are needed, but exactly how much is needed to the acre.

Mees says farmers wanting to collect soil samples for testing may pick up a sheet of directions at his office in Arlington Heights or Tinley Park.

Sanitation Top Fly Control Measure Here

It's discouraging—both to you and your livestock—to have swarms of flies around the farmstead.

But don't throw up your hands in despair. You can lick the fly problem. And your animals will produce more milk and meat in return.

Strict sanitation to eliminate fly breeding places is the number one fly control measure recommended by H. B. Petty, entomologist with the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and State Natural History Survey.

COMBINING and other field operations plus rainy weather have caused a pile-up of manure around barns and feedlots. Flies breed in manure piles, old straw-stack bottoms, refuse under feed bunks, garbage heaps, rotting leaves and grass and other decaying organic matter.

Hauling manure out to fields and cleaning up trash and other fly-breeding places will go a long way in eliminating the profit-robbers.

The follow-up to sanitation is good spraying with the right chemicals.

One-half pound of actual methoxychlor or one ounce of actual lindane will effectively treat 1,000 square feet of surface for two to four weeks.

Pasture Renovation Demonstration Aug. 25

A pasture renovation demonstration will be held Tuesday, August 25, at 1:30 p.m. on the Mrs. Henry Wilkening farm operated by Clarence Wilkening at Schaumburg rd. and Old Plum Grove rd., south of Palatine.

A sub soiler will be used to demonstrate how it breaks up hard pan, to improve plant growth and reduce erosion.

The pasture where a demonstration was held two years ago on Geo. Klein's farm has produced approximately three times as much this year, by the middle of July, as the unimproved pasture had produced in any previous year.

Improved pastures pay big dividends.

Heavy Grain Feeding Sure Way To Lose Money

Cattle feeders, take note: "A dozen 160-acre farms are being lost every day at the Chicago yards," says a Production Credit fieldman.

That's a serious symptom of the cattle-feeding business today. For beef producers, particularly those who aren't prepared to make cheap gains, it's a warning of things to come.

Prices of replacement cattle are way down compared to a year ago. But corn prices are still pegged by government supports. And the fat cattle market cut all kinds of didos throughout 1953.

AN ACCOUNT in Capper's Farmer, which offers ideas to help cut feed costs, says heavy grain feeding looks like a "sure way to lose money."

With cattle and concentrates at present price relationships, feeding grain can be justified only for a short finishing period after cheap gains are made on rations high in roughage and low in grain.

Here are several cost-cutters based on Midwest experiment station and cattle feeders' records:

1. MAKE MAXIMUM use of good legume hay and grass silage. Steers that get a pound of roughage to 2 pounds of grain may eat just as much grain and make faster growth than those fed 3 or 4 pounds of grain for each pound of roughage.

2. Use molasses as an energy food if it is a better buy than corn. When corn is worth $1.50 a bushel, molasses is worth $35 to $40 a ton.

3. Be sure ration is balanced. But don't waste protein. None is needed when grass silage or legume hay is fed liberally. With corn silage, 1¼ to 1½ pounds of protein meal may beat 3½ pounds of Purdue supplement A, which was formulated to balance cobs.

* * *

4. FEEDING COBS may help cut costs. When a whole ear is ground and fed to beef cattle, cobs are worth 15 per cent as much as the grain. Cobs fed as a large part of the ration, however, require high-priced protein, which hikes cost of gains.

5. Young cattle use feed more efficiently than older animals. But a longer feeding period is required. Plan ahead; time of marketing will affect the price.

6. Keep cattle out of mud. Records from many cattle feeders show gains go down and feed per unit of gain goes up when cattle lack a dry place to lie down, or have difficulty walking to bunks or water tanks.

* * *

7. FEED CATTLE only to their proper grade. When corn is high and beef low, as at present, it may not pay to feed the best animals beyond choice grade.

Some agricultural economists are telling feeders it isn't safe to expect more than $20 next summer and fall for steers grading from top choice to low prime.

Produce New Building to Help Solve Grain Drying Problems

By IRA MILLER
Farm Electrification Bureau

Not everybody wants to be a farmer. And there are many reasons why. One is Mother Nature—a strange sort of "character" who smiles sweetly at times and rages destructively at others. Without a hint of things to come, she conjures up wet springs and early falls to provide farmers with harvests of immature grain.

Unless crops can be dried satisfactorily before storage they may spoil. That this happens regularly is shown by reports that $15,000,000 worth of grain spoils annually because of Mother Nature's odd way of doing business with agriculture.

There are a number of different crop driers on the market. Recently, however, something new has been added—a quonset-type, all purpose granary. It is designed particularly to meet the needs of the medium sized general farm operator, or the small grain farmer. The basic structure is 16 feet wide and 12 feet long. It has a capacity of 875 bushels.

When used for drying operations, a portable, metal air duct is placed on the floor in the center of the building. An electrically operated fan is located at one end of the duct to pull unheated air into the building through top and side openings. The air is drawn through the grain and then—heavy with moisture—is exhausted outside. The cost of electricity for this drying and cooling process is about 3 cents per bushel. The building also may be used for forced air drying, if desired.

Grain is elevated into the building through an opening near the top and can be piled around the duct to a depth of 6½ feet. When not used for drying or grain storage, the building may be used for other purposes, since drying equipment can be removed easily.

Don't Let Flies Get Your Nanny—or Your Cattle Either

Don't let flies get your "nanny."

Don't let them get your dairy or beef cattle either. You can easily lick the fly problem, And your animals will produce more milk and meat in return.

Strict sanitation to eliminate fly breeding places is the number one fly control measure recommended by H. B. Petty, entomologist with the University of Illinois College of Agriculture and State Natural History Survey.

Combining and other field operations plus rainy weather have caused a pile-up of manure around barns and feedlots. Flies breed in manure piles, old strawstack bottoms, refuse under feed bunks, garbage heaps, rotting leaves and grass and other decaying organic matter.

Hauling manure out to fields and cleaning up trash and other fly-breeding places will go a long way in eliminating the profit-robbers.

The follow-up to sanitation is good spraying with the right chemicals.

One-half pound of actual methoxychlor or one ounce of actual lindane will effectively treat 1,000 square feet of surface for two to four weeks.

Plan Your Chores to Save Time and Energy

You can cut down the time you spend choring if you adopt a practice used by industrial experts. Make a "job analysis" of your choring routine.

One Iowa farmer cut his choring time nearly two hours a day after such an analysis, points out Capper's Farmer. Here are some of the things he did:

He laid out his chore work to provide circular travel, which saved him steps going back and forth. He used gravity wherever possible to move feed and supplies.

Alleyways and doorways in his buildings were widened to let carts pass through easily. He doesn't "fool" with a pail or bushel basket, when he can carry larger quantities of feed or other supplies in a cart.

The Iowa farmer put his tools and supplies where they are handy for the work to be done. For example, his fork is kept where he will need it to pitch hay or straw, eliminating a trip across the barn to get it. And his choring is planned to complete one operation where the next one begins.

2, 4-D Damage Evident Here

Widespread damage to vegetable crops caused by weed killing chemicals have been reported to the University of Illinois.

M. B. Linn, vegetable pathologist, says most of the damage has been done to tomatoes, peppers, and other susceptible vegetables by 2,4-D, 2,4,5-T, and other weed chemicals.

In some instances fruit has failed to set. In others it has either been deformed or cracked.

* * *

THIS TYPE of injury is not new in Illinois, Linn says. It has been observed since the use of 2, 4-D, but with wider use the reports of damage have also been more numerous.

Chief offenses have been the spraying of railroad and highway right-of-ways, fence rows, and lawns in which the spray has drifted to susceptible crops.

DAMAGE HAS also been caused by using sprayers for both 2,4-D and insecticides without proper cleaning, spraying when wind is blowing toward susceptible crops, high pressure spraying, and holding nozzles too high when susceptible crops are close.

You can recognize this type of injury by a combination of symptoms, rather than by any one, Linn says. Tomato damage shows in frilled edges of leaflets, prominent veins on lower leaf surfaces, fan-shaped and distorted leaves, distorted fruit, and pear-shaped fruit on varieties normally round. On some crops the growing tips of the branches may twist and curl.

ALL THESE signs together are unmistakable symptoms of injury by 2,4-D and similar weed-killers.

Fred Slife, weed control specialist at the University, says the amine type of 2,4-D is safest to use. It does'nt form gas as bad as the ester type does. But, Slife warns, winddrift is the greatest problem.

Two, 4-5-T comes only in the ester form, Slife says, and it may form a gas for several days after spraying and drift to susceptible crops.

Demonstration for Hog-Raising Farmers

If you're interested in the marketing of hogs on a live quality basis, you'll have a chance to see what it's all about at a demonstration in Chicago, August 25.

The Union Stockyard and Transit company is sponsoring the demonstration in connection with the Chicago junior hog show and marketing day. The demonstration starts at 9:30 a.m. and lasts until noon.

Carl F. Mees, farm adviser, says farmers are welcome to attend the demonstration. Experienced buyers on the yards will show how they pick a hog on the basis of quality. Then the same hogs will be butchered, and the carcasses will be graded and shown.

Mees feels it will be worth your time to attend if you're concerned with live quality marketing.

He lists three problems in selling hogs on a live quality basis. First is the problem of recognizing meat-type hogs, second is the development of lines that produce quality pork and third is the willingness of buyers to pay for quality.

Buys Guernsey Sire

William H. Odium, Roselle, has just purchased the young Guernsey sire, Norgert's Royal Diamond, from Gertrude McNaught, Elgin.

This richly bred young bull is out of the high-producing cow, Lockshore Prince's Diamond, that has once been classified excellent for type, and has five records of over 600 pounds of butterfat including the record of 20,455 pounds of milk and 1,029 pounds of butterfat, made as a five-year-old. He is sired by Foremost Quantity's Royal.

Modern Etiquette

by ROBERTA LEE

Q. How can one show deference to a woman when introducing her to another woman?

A. Deference is shown to one person by giving her name first with a rising inflection of the voice, saying the second name in a lower tone.

Q. When a college band plays the school "Alma Mater" at a football game, should those who did not attend that college stand up with the others?

A. Most certainly. To remain seated would be conspicuously rude.

Q. Do you think it necessary to have the approved "salad forks," or do the medium-sized regular forks serve the same purpose?

A. One may provide any shape or size of fork she wishes. The medium-sized fork is in very good taste.

Q. If you are a member of a group of people and someone makes a derogatory remark about a certain religion, and you know that one or more of the group is of that faith, what should you do?

A. Turn the conversation quickly to some other subject—and it doesn't matter if you do this very bluntly. The person who makes such a remark is exceedingly ill-bred.

Q. When a woman is marrying for the second time, should she invite the family of her first husband?

A. This depends entirely upon the harmony that exists between her and her first husband's people. If perfect harmony exists, yes.

Q. Is it proper for a man to cross in front of a woman, when walking?

A. No: the woman should have the right of way whenever possible, and the man should cross behind her instead of in front of her.

Q. In a double wedding, should each bride have her own maid-of-honor?

A. Yes, although they may have the same bridesmaids, and each bridegroom has his own best man.

Q. Is it considered proper, when dining alone in a public place, to read a book or newspaper at the table?

A. Yes.

Q. At a dinner dance, is it necessary for a man to rise when his partner leaves the table to dance with another man?

A. Yes; and he should also rise when she returns to the table.

Q. How long should a letter of condolence be?

A. It should not be lengthy. A brief, but sincere, note is in the best taste.

Cooper Sulphate Helps Control Foot Rot

An Alexander county farmer recently wrote to the University of Illinois college of veterinary medicine for information on how to control foot rot in his dairy herd.

A 10 to 30 per cent solution of copper sulphate used as a foot bath was suggested by L. E. Boley, head of the department of veterinary clinical medicine.

It will take four-fifths of a pound of copper sulphate in a gallon of water to make a 10 per cent solution, according to Dr. Boley. A 30 per cent solution would need 2½ pounds of copper sulphate in a gallon of water.

You will find copper sulphate hard to dissolve in water. To make the job easier, use hot water and pour it over the powdered crystals.

Use copper sulphate with caution. It is poisonous and irritating to the skin and mucous membranes. It is all right to use as a food bath for cattle, but keep children and farm animals away from it.

For further information on the control of foot rot in dairy cattle, consult your local veterinarian.

Record Cow

With 17,364 pounds of milk and 699 pounds of butterfat to her credit, Cold Spring Belle Canary Posch, a registered Holstein-Friesian cow owned by Dorothy Hammerstein, Roselle, has completed a 330-day production test in official herd improvement registry.

She was milked two times daily, and was 9 years 6 months of age when she began her testing period.

Her record averages approximately 24 quarts of milk daily for the period covered by her test.

QUITE CONTRARY

BY MARY

We have always known that Europe was a fascinating place, but its fascination has been brought home to us this week in no uncertain terms. It seems that our family are taking off to the lands of culture and cathedrals. Our mother took off about two weeks ago for England and now our father-in-law is taking all kinds of nasty shots against even more nasty foreign diseases in preparation of going all sorts of places.

It makes us feel just a little dull and hemmed in. After all, the farthest away from the immediate environ that we have been is a hasty trip to San Francisco where we got a swift glimpse of the Golden Gate bridge. We crossed with our eyes shut and a prayer in our hearts that the stupid thing was good for the trip.

We have wondered a great deal about whether we REALLY like the English. It is with pleasure that we can now report that we still don't know if we do or not.

To quote from the letter we have received from the American in England, "Right now, after a brisk walk through Cinnamon Lane, I am listening to a rousing cricket game. The announcer says in a quiet voice, 'MacDonald trots out amiably and throws a rawther fast ball—a lovely shot.'

"TV is even funnier. In place of our advertising, they have interludes. Interludes are sticky, too. The scene is a placid lake and birds singing. This stays on until the birds get tired and you do too. I am beginning to wonder why we get so excited over everything and talk so much."

Our American, very American, visitor was simply fascinated by the English gardens. She goes on to say that everyone in England with even six feet of ground has a landscaped garden, hedge with a gate to insure privacy. The English flowers are gorgeous with strong colors and the green is very green because of the many rains.

As the family that she is visiting is a member of the armed forces, she has had a chance to get a worm's eye view of our overseas base in the west of England.

She says, "The Eisenhower broom is sweeping out a lot of chaff and daily the axe falls on plenty of heads. The American boys are mad, of course, feeling how important their operation is, but as a bystander, listening to the talk, it appears to me the finger is on the weak sisters who should have been canned ages ago. Also, there is no more extra pay for overseas duty. You get what you would at home."

It won't be very long until our young are once more in school. Even now they are telling us what all the girls will be wearing this year and what they must have before they can show their faces on opening day.

We would be more upset about the demands if we didn't remember just how important it was to be dressed to the teeth the day school opened. From then on, anything goes and usually does.

So, while our relatives are touring faraway shores, we shall carry on here at home worrying about taxes due the end of the month, whether after all the explanations of why the sewer and water rates can't be lowered, they might be after all, and if the stop signs on Euclid that were put up to slow the race track racers and which now cause Arlington traffic to more than limp along are going to stay with us forever. It's enough to keep us busy for months.

JUST AROUND THE CORNER

FROM PATTY McARDLE

Dear Peg:

The nicest thing about taking a dip in Lake Michigan is that it feels so good when you get out! Sitting here on our beach towel, I can feel the warm rays of the afternoon sun drying up the icy drops of water on my back and penetrating my cold skin. Why, I do believe my blood is even starting to move again through its poor old chilled vessels.

I don't see how Megan can bear to stay in so long, time and again wading out until the water almost reaches her shoulders, and then, proud of her bravery, racing back to the water's edge to shout, "Watch me, Mama!"

I can surely understand how authorities have concluded children are not as sensitive to heat and cold as adults are. In fact, I would regard that little bit of information as a classic understatement! . . . I wonder if the old man, sitting on the remains of a rusty iron pier, not fifty feet from where I sit, is catching any fish. I haven't seen him pull up one of his three lines since we've been here.

HE SEEMS ENTRANCED by the motion of the three little bobbers, rising and falling on the gently ripply face of the lake. No, I don't believe he cares whether or not he catches a fish or he would't have situated himself so near the bathers. He's content to just sit and think and feel the warmth of the sun.

What grotesque, rubber animals the toy people make for children to play with in the water — and how the children love them.

I wonder if either of those two little boys, with the weird looking green and yellow frogs, will let Megan have a ride on one of them. I can see from her wistful expression, as she watches them play, that she wishes she could have a frog. Well, there they go dashing out of the water and up to their beach towels, frogs in hand.

MY GOODNESS, a mother, father and five children loaded down with towels, shirts, shoes and toys are arriving. Do you suppose all those youngsters are theirs? The mother is coming over to see a friend, sitting near me. "I see you brought the family today"? says her smiling friend. They're all hers.

Like men lost in a desert and suddenly coming upon an oasis, the five children have torn off their shirts and shoes and are racing for the water with screeches of delight.

Megan, caught up in the exhuberance of the scene, is now splashing and shouting with the best of them. Bridget looks up from the hole she has been laboriously digging, and standing up on her chubby little legs, starts for the water's edge. The uneven terrain causes her to list a little and whoops! Down she goes. "Boom!" she says, disgustedly.

This does not deter her from her goal, however, and she is back on her feet and heading for the lake. At the edge of the water, she sits down just close enough to feel the gentle remains of a wavelet wash up to her knees and out again. A helicopter flies over and children point and call to it—mothers and fathers watch it nonchalantly, as it moves through the air. People are coming and people are leaving, but the old man still sits and watches his three white bobbers.

My love,
Patty.

THE MAILMAN'S CORNER

BY LELAND ELLIS TRUXELL

Generally the American citizen is a sensible, hard-working individual, devoted to making money, buying new cars, and dressing himself and his family well.

He is also the world's greatest gadget buyer.

He will buy anything that is new or different, if it promises to be an easier, quicker method of doing things. All the salesman has to say is: "This is a "whooper dooper," guaranteed to save time, effort and money," and he has a sale, even if his prospect has to mortgage five years of his life to get it.

HE IS ALSO the world's greatest traveler. Come vacation time, you are likely to find him anywhere in the world working harder than he ever did on his job, literally wearing himself to a frazzle having a good time, spending every cent he has saved from a year of hard work.

He comes back fagged out, sunburned, insect bitten and broke; then he goes back to work telling everyone what a wonderful vacation he had, works hard for another year, and does it all over again.

Holiday week ends he will travel a thousand miles just to eat dinner with friends and relatives, or just for the fun of it. He will drive ninety miles an hour to get there and back in time to snatch three hours of sleep, then drag himself back to his job, wearied, nervous, convinced he had a hum dinger of a week end.

LOTS OF Americans never return from their week ends, managing to get themselves killed off in traffic accidents, or crippled for life. As many as 400 deaths and 2,500 hospital cases result from a hectic "holiday" week end. It is indeed a miracle of modern medicine and surgery that as many of them are able to return to normal life as do.

Why Americans are that way, I do not know; but I am glad they are.

It is this spirit of reckless daring, this boundless energy and optimism, this love for the new and untried, which has made America the leading nation in the world.

God grant that the heavy hand of communism or socialism may never fall on American hearts to stifle America's energy, destroy her daring, kill her creativeness, or regiment her liberty, freedom and rugged spirit of individualism.

Still Can't Decide Whether Women Are Better

Are women safer drivers than men?

Well, you can't prove it by the national safety council. In the 1953 edition of "Accident Facts," its statistical yearbrook, the council is forced to beg the issue because no one knows how many miles each sex drives.

The council knows eight out of 100 drivers involved in fatal accidents in 1952 were women. Drivers of the fairer sex figured in 12 out of 100 motor vehicle accidents of all types.

But there are not as many women drivers as men, and they drive a lot less.

Parents Urge Better TV For Kids' Benefit

Parents and teachers are concerned about the increasing amount of time school-age children are spending in front of the television screen, and they are looking for ways to influence youngsters to select better programs and to read more.

This was the report of Dr. Paul Witty, professor of education and director of the Psycho-Educational clinic at Northwestern university, in a supplement to his fourth annual study of television. Witty said recently that televiewing by elementary pupils has increased on the average more than an hour a week since 1950, to a total of 22 hours a week, while the average for high school students increased from 14 to 17 hours a week during the same period.

WITTY'S STUDY of the TV habits of 3,000 elementary and high school pupils in the Chicago area, their parents and teachers, revealed that 28 per cent of the teachers and 30 per cent of the parents believed that TV is associated with such problems as increased nervousness, lack of time for recreation, and disinterest in school subjects. Thirty-eight per cent of the parents and 34 per cent of the teachers said that children in the elementary schools read less than before TV.

They suggested the addition of educational programs to stimulate and encourage children to read, and the presentation of more children's programs at favorable evening hours, when televiewing is at a peak.

PARENTS CITED murder, western, crime, mystery, and horror stories as undesirable programs, while they praised "Zoo Parade," "Mr. Wizard," "Super Circus," "Ding Dong School," and "I Love Lucy," in that order. Teachers said that murder, western, crime, and horror stories, and "Superman" are undesirable. They cited "Zoo Parade," "Ding Dong School," "Mr. Wizard," "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," and quiz shows, such as the "Quiz Kids," as desirable.

Parents suggested the addition of more programs featuring music, education, drama, history, and better movies, while teachers favored more current events, music, travel, history, and literature.

Pupils also had suggestions for additional programs. High school students wanted more humor, drama, musical programs, and new movies. The younger pupils favored more programs devoted to comedy, cartoons, science, and a variety of educational offerings including the dramatization of favorite books.

Home Accidents

Most accidents in the home can be prevented. Many burns on the face, neck, arms and hands could be avoided if we follow safety directions when using pressure canners and jars. The use of pails and pans with defective or loose handles that break when carrying hot water or fat causes painful burns. Worn-out equipment is a hazard.

Tax Prose

In these days of the highest price index in our history, the highest tax rate ever imposed on American peacetime economy, and the highest peacetime budget of our history, the following little address conceived for a Democratic administration of a few years ago may well be worth the reading and consideration of our present budget-cutting, tax-slashing, price-reducing Republican friends now occupying the hallowed halls of government.

"One score and seventeen years ago, our fathers brought forth upon this nation a new tax, conceived in desperation and dedicated to the proposition that all men are fair game. Now we are engaged in a great mass of calculation testing whether that taxpayer — or any taxpayer so confused and so impoverished can long endure.

"We are met on Form 1040. We have come to dedicate a large portion of our income to a final resting place with these men who have spent their lives that they may spend our money. It is altogether anguish and torture that we we cannot cheat, we cannot underestimate this tax. The collectors, clever and sly, who computed here, have gone for beyond our power to add and subtract.

"Our creditors will little note nor long remember what we pay here. The Bureau of Internal Revenue will never forget what we report here. It is for us taxpayers, rather, to be devoted here to the tax return which the government has thus far so nobly spent. It is rather for us to be dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from those vanishing dollars we take increased devotion to the few remaining; that we here highly resolve that next year will not find us in a higher tax bracket. That this taxpayer, underpaid, shall figure out more deductions, and that taxation of the people, by the Congress, for the government, shall not cause our solvency to perish from this earth."

Railroad Noise

You missed a bet in not printing the letter signed "A Reader, Mount Prospect" in a box, in boldface on your front page. Furthermore everyone of us poor victime on the whole length of the Northwestern line, Wisconsin branch, owes him a large vote of thanks.
